'PROUD DAY FOR B.C.'

DOUGLAS, B.C. (CP) — Premier Bennett pledged today to develop the Columbia River "just as swiftly and diligently" as the province now is developing the power potential of the Peace River in northeastern British Columbia.

Speaking at a ceremony commemorating formal ratification of the Columbia River Treaty between Canada and the United States, the premier said the occasion was one of the proudest in B.C. history.

Most of his brief remarks from a platform at the Peace Arch across the international border between this Canadian port of entry and Blaine, Wash., dealt with close relations between the U.S. and Canada.

He extended a welcome to British Columbia to President Johnson, who with Prime Minister Pearson, is here to commemorate the Columbia Treaty that requires the construction of three dams on the Columbia River in B.C.

Text of his speech was released to the press in advance of delivery.

Welcoming President Johnson to B.C., he said it was "particularly fitting that we should gather here on the occasion of another presidential visit at a setting which symbolizes all that was statesmanlike about Franklin Roosevelt" — the last previous U.S. president to visit the province.

"The remarkable and enduring relationship between two nations which this peace arch celebrates is by now so familiar to the people of our two countries that it may be taken for granted.

"But perhaps it would be well for us to proclaim more often to all the world the trust, the understanding and the affection which Canadians and Americans have shared as a matter of course for over 150 years.

"Because if good example is the spark of imitation, then we may light the way, by our example, to a new frontier of co-operation among the nations of a troubled world."

The Columbia Treaty was "another demonstration of our mutual confidence."

The only political note in the speech was a brief reference to the prepayment formula in the treaty under which B.C. today received $273,000,000 from the U.S. for power benefits to be derived from the treaty.

The premier said "we would perhaps be less than human if we did not take real satisfaction in the knowledge that the financing formula put forward by the British Columbia government was accepted by both national governments as a means of implementing the treaty's terms.

"It is rewarding to see these benefits enjoyed by a single province or state; it is infinitely more rewarding to see them extended to millions of people in both our countries.

"We are already developing the mighty resource of the Peace River and I can assure you, Mr. President and Mr. Prime Minister, that we will proceed just as swiftly and diligently to develop the Columbia River in keeping with the terms of the international treaty."

WIFE REVEALS

'Blood Bomber' Held by RCMP

VANCOUVER (CP) — The wife of blood bomber David Cowlishaw said Wednesday that her husband was picked up by RCMP hours before the scheduled arrival here of President Johnson and Prime Minister Pearson.

VANCOUVER (UPI) — Police were keeping a close eye on "blood bomber" David Cowlishaw today in case he tries to carry out a threat to interfere with Columbia River Treaty ceremonies involving President Lyndon Johnson and Prime Minister Lester Pearson.

A spokesman for the RCMP said security officials were "aware" of Cowlishaw's threat to take some unspecified action during the ceremony, but denied they had increased security precautions because of it.

Cowlishaw, a 28-year-old British-born journalist who heads an organization called "Underdog," threatened Monday to interfere with today's Johnson-Pearson ceremonies in a further attempt to publicize the case of Calvin MacDonald. Three weeks ago, Cowlishaw threw a carton of beef blood onto the floor of the Commons in Ottawa to draw attention to MacDonald's grievance.

'Bit of Olde England' Even in Washington

Even the U.S. State Department feels that Victoria is a "little bit of olde England."

A wire from Washington, D.C., regrettably declining an invitation to U.S. President L. B. Johnson to visit Victoria today was signed by William R. Tyler, assistant secretary of state for EUROPEAN affairs at the State Department. The invitation was sent last week by Acting Mayor M. H. Mooney.

The reply read: "With reference your telegram to the president, I regret that his schedule will not permit him time to accept your cordial invitation to visit the city of Victoria when he is in British Columbia on Wednesday.

"His stay in the province must of necessity be brief but I know he would appreciate an opportunity to enjoy the hospitality of the city if it were possible."

Ald. Mooney said he realized when he extended the invitation that there was little chance it could be accepted because of the president's schedule but felt it was important that the province's capital at least make the effort.

"Had it been accepted, we would have exerted ourselves to the utmost to make the visit pleasant for the president."

U.S. EXPERTS PONDER NIKITA'S CLAIM

Cobalt Bomb or Death Ray New Weapon?

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The "new means of destruction" claimed by Soviet Premier Khrushchev could be a major advance in chemical or germ warfare, U.S. government experts said today.

Defence sources stressed they were speculating in the absence of any hard intelligence information about what Khrushchev meant in a talk to a Japanese group in the Kremlin Tuesday. Developments considered in the realm of the possible included:

—The cobalt bomb, a nuclear device using a shell of cobalt instead of steel. Explosion of such a bomb would unleash huge amounts of lethal and long-lived radioactive fallout.

—A death ray, possibly a highly concentrated, intense beam of light.

—The neutron bomb, another kind of death ray weapon whose emissions would destroy all life in a target area but would do virtually no damage to structures.

Defence experts were not disposed to dispute the existence of a significant new Soviet weapon. They noted that Soviet boasting of this sort generally has had some basis, although often inflated for propaganda effect.

At the same time they were not dismissing the possibility that this might be a play by Khrushchev to frighten his Chinese opponents — and that the Russian leader might have taken liberties with the truth.

His use of the term "new means of destruction" prompted some experts to suggest that the reported weapon did not involve nuclear explosives.

On this ground, they tended to discount the 100-megaton bomb, which is hardly new in Khrushchev's terminology.

The neutron bomb, it was noted, likely would have a relatively short killing range, and thus would not seem to fit Khrushchev's description of the new weapon as capable of annihilating life on earth.

As for the cobalt bomb, scientists said such a "dirty" weapon is considered dangerous to the user country because the heavy radioactivity it would emit likely would be carried around the world on air currents and deposited on the soil of that country.

Senator Richard B. Russell, Dem. Ga., of the Senate armed services committee, said early this year that both the United States and Russia are trying to develop a death ray.

He did not go into detail, but the House of Representatives Appropriations committee reported in April that "a death ray type of weapon might evolve from Laser research."

Laser derives from "light amplification by stimulated emission of radiation," an intense light beam.

The committee voted funds to push work on such weapons of the future as death ray and chemical agents that could "render persons helpless for short periods of time without causing large numbers of fatalities."

It is no secret that the United States has been experimenting with and manufacturing various kinds of "nerve gases," some of which incapacitate and others that kill.

Pentagon specialists said they always are hearing rumors of Russian experiments in chemical-biological warfare.

If, as some experts think, Khrushchev was talking about a new weapon of this kind it would appear he was referring to something lethal and not a paralysing or incapacitating nerve gas.

But the experts pointed out that the use of such gases or chemical agents carries a danger to the user country, as in the case of the cobalt bomb.

They said the user country would be in danger of the chemical or germ agents wafting back on its people.

Bennett Greet LBJ, Pearson

By FRANK RUTTER

Times Legislative Reporter

VANCOUVER — LBJ and LBP and WACB equalled political history here today.

These famous initials also added up to the tightest security network ever drawn around the lower mainland — multiplied by thousands of members of the public.

U.S. President Lyndon B. Johnson and Prime Minister L. B. Pearson were met at Sea Island RCAF base here at 1 p.m. by the broad smile of Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Never before has such an array of political fame gathered on B.C. soil.

Never before were so many mounties, secret service and troops on guard to ensure the safety of the summit trio.

And for the first time Vancouver and Moscow were linked by the president's "hot line" telephone to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev — rigged up at the airport.

Despite rain all Tuesday and this morning the guards were prepared for one of the biggest crowds in B.C. history.

RCMP said they were geared to handle anywhere from 5,000 to 100,000 people.

And despite the short notice, police and army quickly drew up a master plan to thwart any possible disaster.

For this was the first time the U.S. president had set foot outside his country since the infamy of Nov. 22, 1963 — the day of the assassination of President Kennedy.

Photographers who wanted to shoot pictures from hangar tops at the airport were told that nobody was allowed to go on a roof.

Type of Car Kept a Tight Secret

Officials refused to disclose what type of car would carry the president and prime minister from the airport to the border.

(It was an open convertible that carried John Kennedy to his death in Dallas.)

Timing was precise. The president was to spend only three hours from the time he landed until he took off for Seattle aboard USAF 1 — a 707 jet — at about 4 p.m.

A 21-gun salute greeted the two national leaders as they stepped from a department of transport Jetstar onto a red carpet at Sea Island.

There to shake their hands was Mr. Bennett, flanked by two cabinet ministers.

A 100-man honor guard from Work Point barracks presented arms.

The band of the Royal Canadian Engineers from Chilliwack tried to drown the scream of jet engines with a presidential serenade.

The ceremony at the airport took less than half an hour.

RCMP closed off the 26-mile route along the Deas thway to the U.S. border, sending traffic down the old Pacific Highway.

The official party sped at 60 mph from the airport to the Peace Arch at Blaine, followed by 10 buses carrying newsmen from across Canada and the U.S. and invited guests.

No cars were allowed in the motorcade, surrounded by police and U.S. secret service men.

At the Peace Arch four political leaders hailed the Columbia River Treaty — the cause that brought them here.

Speeches were made by the president, the prime minister, the premier and Washington

Peace Talks Near?

PARIS (UPI) — Hopes for a Laotian peace conference soared today on reports that the communists have offered to neutralize the strategic Plain des Jarres.

6 Persons Drown

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — Six farm workers were drowned today and 10 scrambled to safety when a collision on a rain-swept road knocked their truck into a canal. Survivors said the vehicle had been carrying 16 persons.

Big Plane Order

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Australia is to buy seven new Caribou transport aircraft in Canada at a cost of $2,900,000 Australian ($3,018,000), Defence Minister Shane Paltridge announced today.

No Sabotage

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Pickersill said today department investigators uncovered no evidence of sabotage in their investigation of the crash of an Air Canada DC-8 last year near Montreal with the loss of 118 lives.

LEADERS GET VIEW

Weather Clears Over Columbia

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson and President Johnson met here today before flying west over the Columbia River basin, soon to be the scene of a vast power development.

Their plane, a Canadian government transport, took them to Vancouver.

The Jetstar took off at 11:17 a.m., PDT, which was 17 minutes behind the leaders' tight schedule.

The weather office said clear weather moved up from Washington which would give the leaders a clear view of at least the southern portions of the river basin where three dams are to be built in B.C. under the treaty.

"We are about to travel over one of the richest and most majestic territories in the world," Johnson said in a prepared speech prior to the flight. "It will be made more abundant by this day's work."

Lauding U.S.-Canadian co-operation, he said:

"Twenty-one years ago President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Mackenzie King met in Hyde Park. They agreed to work together to defend this hemisphere and democracy everywhere."

"From that day to this we have followed the same path of partnership. Free peoples everywhere are more secure because of our partnership in NATO, in NORAD, and in the United Nations."

"It is a symbol of our time that beneath the magnificence of Montana stand weapons powerful enough to devastate much of a continent."

The president apparently was referring to the state's great complex of underground silos housing intercontinental missiles.

He predicted that the Columbia River development project would provide jobs, power and recreational facilities.

In remarks prepared for delivery at Vancouver, the president said the Columbia River Treaty "will lay a new foundation for prosperity for Canadians and Americans."

He noted that the partnership was achieved "because we respect our differences."

YACHT RACE CALLED OFF — NO WIND

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Today's second yacht race in the best-of-seven series to determine the holder of the America's Cup was postponed 24 hours because of the lack of wind.

Both the Constellation, the United States' defender, and Sovereign, the British challenger, had stood at the starting line for more than an hour waiting for the wind to freshen when the race was put off.

Both contestants said they would be ready to race Thursday, wind permitting.

B.C. Bank Hearing Postponed

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate banking committee today postponed for two weeks further action on an application to incorporate the Bank of British Columbia, in which the B.C. government would hold a minority interest.

Senator Salter Hayden (L—Ontario), committee chairman, read a letter from lawyers for the bank requesting the postponement to permit B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner to make arrangements to appear before the committee with further evidence.

The bank application was before the committee earlier during which Premier Bennett and several B.C. cabinet ministers replied to questions about the provincial government's interest in the bank.

B.C. AND ALASKA

'Go-it-alone' Power Project?

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — British Columbia and Alaska may move alone toward a joint industrial and power scheme to avoid delays usual to international agreements, top officials said here Tuesday.

In a report to the Alaska-British Columbia-Yukon conference, Lands and Forest Minister Ray Williston of B.C. said forest and water reserves have been established on the remote Iskut Valley of the Alaska Panhandle.

A private company has proposed a dam that could supply power for two major mineral developments. Both would involve international agreements.

However, state and provincial officials proposed that responsibility for the international aspects of the scheme be taken out of the hands of the U.S. and Canadian Federal governments.

Mr. Williston and Governor William Egan of Alaska said development could be tied up for 10 years if referred to the International Joint Commission.

They agreed that in regional matters, the province and state should settle their own problems and not follow the formula set out by the international boundary waters treaty of 1909.

STUDY PLANS

Mr. Williston said plans are being studied for the first of four potential dams on the Iskut River, part of the Stikine River system near the Alaska-B.C. border.

He said the four dams could produce 579,000 kilowatts of power at a cost of between two and three mills per kilowatt hour at site.

The power could supply the needs of the Alaskan communities of Wrangell and Petersburg, the Grandeur Copper Mine near Stewart, B.C. — scheduled for production in 1966 — and the Kennecott copper find on the Stikine which has tens of millions of tons of ore.

The minister suggested an 80-mile railroad linking Wrangell pulp and lumber operation proposed for the Stikine and Iskut valleys.

Art Thieves Hunted

ROME (AP) — Search was pressed today for an international ring of thieves blamed for stealing 16 paintings by some of Italy's greatest Renaissance artists from an Italian collector.

The value of the paintings stolen Monday night from Prince Alessandro Torlonia was estimated at first at $360,000. Art experts said later they might be worth more than $1,000,000.

DUAL CEREMONIES

Columbia Pact
'Now in Effect'

OTTAWA (CP)—The historic Columbia River treaty was ratified here today by Canada and the United States at an unusual ceremony attended by some 40 persons.

External Affairs Minister Martin and U.S. ambassador W. Walton Butterworth exchanged treaty ratification documents shortly after 10 a.m. EDT in the railway committee room in the centre block of the parliament buildings.

The ratification ceremony synchronized with one in New York where a representative of a group of United States power utilities turned over to A. B. Harkin, assistant deputy finance minister, a cheque for $253,929.53.

This money is the American prepayment for a 30-year entitlement to downstream benefits from dams to be built on the Columbia River in Canada by the British Columbia government.

After Mr. Martin and Mr. Butterworth had signed each ratification document they informed Mr. Harkin and U.S. officials in New York of their action by long-distance telephone.

When all the documents had been signed, Mr. Harkin informed Mr. Martin that he had received the $253,929.53 cheque from Howard Elmore, president of the Columbia Power storage exchange, which represents public and private power companies in the northwestern U.S. This non-profit corporation recently raised the money by a bond issue.

The Canadian equivalent of this sum, approximately $274,000,000, will be turned over later today to B.C. Premier Bennett by Prime Minister Pearson. A cheque will be deposited to the credit of the B.C. government in a Vancouver branch of the Bank of Montreal.

The Ottawa ceremony was attended by some members of the Commons external affairs committee and several senators. They and other guests were able to hear the entire telephone conversation between Ottawa and New York.

NOTABLE STEP

Mr. Butterworth said the treaty is a "notable step by our two countries in the co-operative development of the resources of the north American continent."

"Projects constructed under this treaty and the benefits which flow therefrom will be lasting monuments to the efforts of both countries to take advantage of the geography we share," he said. "Our two countries working together will achieve results superior to those attainable by independent action."

After the ceremony, Mr. Martin and Mr. Butterworth exchanged the pens they used to sign the ratification documents. Mr. Martin said the pens were exchanged "as a memento of an historic event."

"Thank you, I shall always treasure it," Mr. Butterworth said in accepting the pen used by Mr. Martin.

"The Columbia River Treaty now is in effect," Mr. Martin said.

The documents signed by Mr. Martin and Mr. Butterworth included the instruments of ratification, the protocol of exchange of instruments of ratification and notes authorizing the Canadian entitlement purchase agreement and confirming the coming into effect of the protocol to the treaty.

Thousands Cheered
FDR, Family in '37

President Johnson's visit to B.C. today is the first presidential visit from the United States since President Franklin Delano Roosevelt came here on Sept. 30, 1937.

He arrived at Ogden Point aboard the USS Phelps, escorted by USS Porter and was greeted by thousands of enthusiastic Victorians.

The city streets were lined with flags and bunting and President Roosevelt received the friendliest welcome imaginable.

He and Mrs. Roosevelt were officially welcomed by Hon. Eric Hamber, then lieutenant-governor of British Columbia; Premier T. D. Pattullo; Hon. John Hart, finance minister, and Mayor Andrew McGavin of Victoria.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt were accompanied by their grandchildren, Sisie and Buzze Dall; their daughter, Mrs. John Boettiger; their son, James Roosevelt; and their son-in-law, John Boettiger.

They were entertained to lunch at Government House and left here at 3 p.m. on the return trip to Port Angeles.

President Roosevelt died on April 12, 1945—less than a month before the Allied victory in Europe.

His death at Warm Springs, Ga., and the story of his life covered the whole front page of The Victoria Daily Times that day.

... POWER DEAL

State Governor Albert D. Rosellini.

Mr. Bennett presented the president and prime minister each with a miniature carved totem pole engraved for the occasion.

The public was welcome there and at the airport—but held back behind wooden barriers. Newsmen, who were given an hour-long briefing Tuesday, were stationed in special enclosures.

The ceremony at the Peace Arch was actually just inside the U.S. Officials painstakingly explained that the reason was not political—just elemental.

The direction of the sun and the geography of the Peace Arch park just made it better that way, they said.

However, there were crowds on both sides of the imaginary line of the border as the national leaders stood in the shadow of the big white arch.

The big day began at Great Falls, Mont., where the president met Mr. Pearson, shortly after 10 a.m.

Together they flew over the Columbia River basin—to see what the whole thing was really about.

They were shown the sites of the three dams that B.C. will build with U.S. dollars as a result of the treaty.

It was more than 20 years ago that Canada and the U.S. began to explore the joint development of the mighty river for electric power and flood control.

In 1951 former Prime Minister Diefenbaker and the U.S. President Eisenhower signed the treaty.

Three Years of Tricky Diplomacy

But it took another three years of bickering, battling and tricky diplomacy to put it into effect.

The treaty means the U.S. will get vital protection from floods and a huge chunk of much-needed power because of the control of the Columbia within B.C.

It means that B.C. has got $273 million in cash—the price the U.S. paid earlier today in a ceremony at Ottawa.

Ottawa's cheque for the money received by External Affairs Minister Paul Martin from U.S. Ambassador W. W. Butterworth was deposited in the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce for B.C.

FORMER NDP MEMBER
NOMINATED BY GRITS

GALT, Ont. (UPI)—A politician who bolted the New Democratic Party only a week ago to join the Liberals won the Liberal nomination here Tuesday night for the Nov. 9 federal byelection in Waterloo South.

However, Frederick Stewart's nomination wasn't easy. At times, many of the 500 Liberals broke into angry remarks as he explained his defection. One Liberal charged Stewart was lying.

Stewart, a 30-year-old Galt high school teacher, beat out Donald Shaver, 43, who twice before had contested the riding.

Although Stewart's defection was made public only last week, he told the meeting he actually decided to switch parties Sept. 1 and had met with federal Liberals in Galt. Later he went to Ottawa for a talk with Prime Minister Pearson.

Victorians
Get Closeup
Positions

VANCOUVER — President Johnson couldn't come to Victoria and sip tea—but 150 lucky Victorians came here to see him.

They got the best view, too. The 150 Victorians are members of the army and navy.

One hundred of them are the honor guard that the president inspected here when he arrived at Sea Island RCMP base.

The guard was picked from the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles. The men from Work Point Barracks were commanded by Maj. L. E. Cornett of Vancouver.

Despite the cool, damp weather, they were dressed in summer uniform, with NCOs and officers in full dress.

They lined up beside the red carpet to present arms to the President and Prime Minister Pearson when they arrived aboard a Canadian Jetstar aircraft.

The other Victorians who came to see the president are the members of the HMCS Naden band.

Under command of Lt. Tudor E. Jones, they played at the Peace Arch on the U.S.-Canadian border when the President and Prime Minister arrived for ceremonies marking conclusion of the Columbia River treaty.

Monday's declaration by Cowlishaw said merely that Macdonald's case would be "further brought to public attention" today. He did not elaborate.

Sources said they felt, while Cowlishaw might try to hand a petition to Pearson and/or Johnson, he was "not the type" to offer any serious threat to the safety of either leader.

Mystery Boats
Attack Freighter

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Fidel Castro's government and Cuban exiles are blaming each other for the machine-gunning of the Spanish freighter Sierra Aranzazu.

Three crew members were killed and seven were injured when two unidentified speedboats attacked the 1,600-ton ship Sunday night and set it afire off the eastern tip of Cuba.

A survivor said the boats swooped in moments after a speedboat approached the ship, turned a spotlight on its name, and then roared away.

Havana radio said "there is reason to believe" that "pirates" financed by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency made the attack.

Two Cuban exile leaders—Manuel Artime and Manolo Ray—denied their men were involved. Friends of Artime in Panama said his organization believes the raid was carried out by Castro agents to discredit the exile group.

In Washington, a State Department spokesman said: "Whatever the nationality of the attackers, we cannot but deplore this attack on a merchant vessel on the high seas."

B.C. Hydro
Criticized

OTTAWA (CP)—H. W. Herdridge, NDP member for Kootenay West, said in the Commons Tuesday that the federal cabinet should disallow hydro legislation passed earlier this year by the British Columbia legislature.

Rising on a question of privilege, he said the B.C. act giving the provincial power and hydro authority sweeping powers of expropriation should be disallowed.

He sought unsuccessfully to move that the Commons express its view formally that the resolution passed June 5 to approve the Columbia River Power Treaty does not prevent the government from disallowing the B.C. act.

Speaker Alan Macnaughton ruled the motion out of order. He said he has no authority to give legal opinions.

Urban Sprawl Sure to Come Says Planner

Approval of a large housing scheme in North Saanich will trigger urban sprawl throughout rural areas of the peninsula.

This warning was sounded at a public hearing Tuesday night by Anthony Roberts, director of the Capital Region Planning Board.

Mr. Roberts was speaking at a hearing called to consider the zoning application of Dean Park Estates. The firm wants to develop a 411-acre high quality residential subdivision on East Saanich Road.

The property, formerly owned by the Montford Estate, is on a hillside adjacent to the Dominion Experimental Farm near John Dean Park.

250 Turn Out

More than 250 residents, mostly from North Saanich, attended the hearing chaired by Don South, director of the municipal affairs department's planning division. The hearing was held in North Saanich High.

Decisions on rezoning the property was reserved. Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell will make the final decision.

Mr. Roberts said if the zoning application is approved it would create a dangerous precedent.

"This issue is a critical one," he said. "I guarantee that if this subdivision is allowed to go ahead, within a year there will be another application to establish a large subdivision in some other part of rural Saanich."

Spread Fast

"In no time you will have urban developments criss-crossing the rural areas of the peninsula," he added.

Mr. Roberts said he could not see how the minister of municipal affairs could approve one subdivision and refuse another.

There were areas more suitable to establish a housing estate than the proposed site, he said.

Mr. Roberts favored a minimum of two-acre lots for rural areas.

Lawyer Louis Lindholm, representing the developers, said the proposed housing estate is being planned to fulfill the prerequisites of sound planning.

Preserve Trees

He said the subdivision would be in half-acre lots and steps taken to preserve many trees on the property.

"The area has no agricultural potential," he said. "It is situated on a slope and is heavily treed."

From a planning point of view, he said, the site is ideally situated. It is near schools and 10 minutes from the shopping district of Sidney.

City Bishop At Rome Meet

Bishop Remi De Roo of Victoria is attending the third session of the ecumenical council which opened in Rome Monday.

Since he left here in August, Bishop De Roo has attended three conventions in Canada and one in Liverpool, England. He may attend the 38th International Eucharistic Congress in Bombay, India, from Nov. 28 to Dec. 6.

The bishop is expected to return to Victoria Dec. 21—the second anniversary of his consecration in St. Andrew's Cathedral.

DUONG VAN DUC

Five Coup Leaders Under Arrest

SAIGON (AP) — Brig. Gen. Lam Van Phat, the former interior minister who organized the unsuccessful coup in South Viet Nam last Sunday, surrendered to government authorities in Saigon, tonight, bringing an end to the crisis for the time being.

Phat was one of several rebel officers who withdrew with their troops and tanks to My Tho, 40 miles south of Saigon, after the coup collapsed Monday. Saigon radio warned today that if he did not surrender to Saigon authorities, the government "would not be responsible for his safety."

Phat heard the broadcast in My Tho and came to Saigon. Also expected to surrender soon was another officer on the wanted list, an ex-chief of suburban Gia Dinh province, Col. Nhan Minh Trang.

Phat was the fifth coup leader to surrender to the government and to be placed under arrest. Already detained were Maj. Gen. Duong Van Duc, former 4th Corps commander; Col. Huynh Van Ton, former 7th Division commander who agreed to return to Saigon from My Tho earlier today; Col. Duong Hieu Nghia, commander of the rebel armor; and Brig. Gen. Duong Ngoc Lam, former Mayor of Saigon.

MacPowell to Build

VANCOUVER (CP)—Macmillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited applied to the city Tuesday for a development permit to build an $8,000,000 office building. The proposed building will be 18 storeys.

'Open Schools For 12 Months'

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow Tuesday criticized an announcement that teachers will seek higher salaries and counter-proposed that schools be kept open 12 months a year.

Norman Preston, teachers' salary negotiating committee chairman, predicted that a substantial wage increase would be proposed at a meeting Sept. 23 on the 1965 contract.

Ald. Edgelow said that teachers' salaries already are high enough and "they can, and many do, earn extra money in their off-holiday period."

He said keeping schools open 12 months would cut down school costs substantially and should be tried even if it meant staggering classes and vacations.

"It would spread the tourist season and this would be good for the whole economy of the province," he said.

"In any case, with our weather, summer is as bad a time as you can get for holidays."

No Flap at 'Yard' Over Queen's Safety

LONDON (CP) — Scotland Yard said today it has every confidence that the Queen will be in good hands during her forthcoming Canadian trip.

A spokesman was commenting on recent published reports life may be in danger from terrorists during her stop in Quebec.

Commander Evan Jones, head of Scotland Yard's special branch, has been in touch with Inspector John Dean, RCMP liaison officer here, on the various security arrangements. The spokesman said he has absolute confidence in the provisions being made by the RCMP and other Canadian security agents for safeguarding the Queen.

ATHENS (AP)—With a big smile and a handshake King Constantine II welcomed to Athens today Archbishop Makarios, president of Cyprus.

To consult with the Greek government on the next moves on Cyprus.

Northerners Reject Water 'Export' Plan

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—Delegates to the British Columbia, Alaska and Yukon conference Tuesday rejected a scheme which would involve water from the three areas being exported as far as New York and Mexico.

The proposed scheme, known as the North American Water and Power Alliance, would divert northwestern rivers into a waterway from B.C. to the Great Lakes and southern U.S. Representatives of the three regions agreed to issue a formal objection to the plan.

At Prince George Monday, John Davis, parliamentary assistant to Prime Minister Pearson, said a water exchange such as the one proposed had much to recommend it.

Help for the Railways

PARTIAL IMPLEMENTATION of the MacPherson royal commission report on transportation is contained in the bill introduced in Parliament Monday by the government. The legislation comes to grips with a large portion of the "hard core" problems which have been plaguing the railways for years.

The government's proposals, described by Transport Minister Pickersgill as "revolutionary," contain a number of changes which are economically rational although there is little doubt they will stir up violent opposition from both political and commercial sources.

At the heart of the legislation is the government's determination to take railway operations largely out of the control of the government and to allow the railroads to get in step with modern times.

The biggest area of government control is in setting freight rates and here it is planned, in general, to substitute a minimum rate for the present rate ceilings. This leaves the railways free to charge whatever they can get for their service, with due regard for competition from other forms of transport — while preventing them from charging artificially low rates in an attempt to freeze out competition. The exception to this general rule will be in areas where the railways have a "captive" market for their services. Here the government will continue to set ceilings.

The flaw in this part of the legislation may well turn out to be the degree of competition that exists in freight hauling. In recent years the two Canadian railways have moved heavily into trucking operations by absorbing a number of the major national highway transport companies. How much actual truck-rail competition there will be is not yet clear.

The other major aspect of the government's bill is the gradual abandonment of uneconomic branch line and passenger service operations. There can be little argument as to the correctness of this move since it is unreasonable to force the railways to maintain lines which generate little or no traffic in areas where highway travel and transport have been built up. Even so, it can be predicted that almost every proposal to pull up a line of tracks will be met with demands that the service be continued and this will be a political "hot potato" in most parts of the country.

The sweeping changes which the government plans will be initially expensive but if they are carried through the expense is expected to diminish sharply each year. The MacPherson commission report made to the Diefenbaker government two years ago estimated that subsidies totalling $97 millions would have to be paid out in the first year of change-over compared with existing subsidies of about $77 millions.

The government now acknowledges that the initial year would cost over $100 millions. Of this, $66 millions would go for phasing out branch line and passenger operations and this would diminish by the fifth year to about $12,400,000, after which no subsidies would be paid on passenger services. The balance of the subsidies is made up largely of compensation for losses on grain movements and the Maritimes freight subvention.

While the government's bill promises both a saving in subsidies over the long run as well as an opportunity for the railways to run their businesses in a more economic manner, debate in the House promises to be hot when the regional implications are fully digested.

Parts of the country, notably northern Ontario, the Prairies and, possibly, British Columbia, could feel the impact of higher freight rates due to the fact that there is comparatively less competition in transportation in these areas compared with Ontario and Quebec, while the Maritimes will still be under the shelter of the present 20 per cent freight subvention.

On the Home Stretch

SIR ALEC DOUGLAS-HOME has announced October 15 as Britain's election date. By his action he has again stimulated the political arithmetic game centring on private polls that indicate the Conservatives will win more seats than anticipated a year or two ago. And in the process he may have drawn fresh attention to the so-called "dull" speech Mr. Harold Wilson delivered to the Trades Union Congress at Blackpool a few days ago.

Certainly the Conservatives are entitled to more optimism than was conceivable in the last days of Mr. Harold MacMillan, and Labor has scant reason now to consider the election its own private run-away.

The Liberals, after the heady flush of enthusiasm following Orpington and succeeding by-elections, cannot hope for more than a balance-of-power position in the event of a close finish between the two other parties.

Perhaps the significant development in the next month, before voters mark their ballots, will be the impact of the Wilson Blackpool speech, which turns out to be not quite so dull on analysis.

In it, say students of Labor politics, Mr. Wilson changed the tack on which his party had been embarked for years, a shift in direction away from what had been traditional if hazy sympathy for revolutionary socialism to the relatively moderate form that has emerged in Sweden.

"Like many here," Mr. Wilson told the TUC delegates at Blackpool, "I recently visited Sweden, socialist Sweden, socialist for 32 years. I did not... find a nation of serfs, a nation denied freedom—democratic socialism advances and generalizes freedom. What I did find was a rate of economic progress far exceeding that of Britain under the Tories... Their increase in output per head, the real measure of living standards, has been more than double ours."

The speech in Blackpool did not arouse overwhelming warmth and enthusiasm among the labor unions to whose congress it was delivered. The words built no dream of a state controlled by the proletariat and automatically bringing into effect an era of ever-rising wages and continually diminishing working hours.

The familiar stereotypes had been removed. The TUC restrained its cheering. But the Labor Party had apparently been launched on a somewhat altered course—a course whose vote-getting qualities will receive their test a month hence.

The ensuing debate will be watched with more than passing interest far beyond the ridings whose voters will render the decision October 15. This could be Mr. Wilson's show, be it triumph or disaster.

Monstrous Etc.

IT IS DIFFICULT TO SAY whether Mr. Khrushchev is announcing a truly new and cataclysmic weapon or merely trying to frighten his Japanese visitors, or the Chinese, or the West, when he spoke in Moscow yesterday.

The world has become so used to descriptions of weapons which could wipe out humanity, destroy civilization, restore the stone age, or otherwise end life as we know it, that we are perhaps less impressed than we should be by such threats. The terrible can remain terrible as a threat only so long, then it becomes habitual.

What engages the interest of Western scientists most in Mr. Khrushchev's announcement is his choice of adjectives. They are prepared to have him build a bigger and more powerful bomb by methods well known to themselves. But when he speaks of a "new" weapon which is also monstrous and terrible, the question arises whether Soviet scientists have discovered some hitherto unknown device.

In any event, it seems that both East and West already have the means to kill more than the earth's present 3.5 billion people. Anything more monstrous and terrible than that, even if new, seems supererogatory.

Didn't He Know?

SEVERAL POWER EXPERTS IN recent days have predicted the early availability of nuclear power on a competitive basis with hydro. According to these spokesmen, the cost gap between the two methods is rapidly being closed.

It may take some professional courage to come right out in public and make such a prediction, still more to set a definite time limit of 10 to 15 years. Mr. D. W. R. Morgan, a power man from Pittsburgh, has had that courage. But he added an extra twist to his declaration which puts him in a different class of hero from his colleagues.

Mr. Morgan, all flags flying, made his pro-nuclear, stand-back-hydro statement in Prince George, B.C.

Finger on The Trigger

New York Times

PRESIDENT Johnson has effectively met the issue of the control of "small conventional nuclear weapons" raised by Senator Goldwater. In response to the latter's proposal that the Commander of NATO decide on the use of such weapons, the president pointed out that the employment of any atomic arm "would lead us down an uncertain path of blows and counter-blows whose outcome none may know. No president of the United States of America can divest himself of the responsibility for such a decision."

An American president, as the custodian of most of the free world's nuclear power, is responsible for the physical safety of hundreds of millions of people in other countries who of necessity must rely upon his prudence, steady nerves, and sound judgment. This dependence is agonizing enough; but if control of nuclear weapons were diffused into the hands of military subordinates, the result could be international panic—and understandably so.

Lack of Understanding

It is a measure of the world's peril and of Senator Goldwater's lack of serious understanding of it that he should speak of even small tactical nuclear weapons as "conventional." According to the defence department, these weapons have an average yield five times the bomb that was dropped on Hiroshima. His proposal is significant chiefly for the light it casts on the quality of his thinking.

On a tough, highly complicated issue where any judgment commands respect only if it is made in the rigorous context of specific fact, Senator Goldwater's ideas turn out to be abstract, dogmatic and yet curiously vague.

For example, he has never satisfactorily explained why in this age of instantaneous communication between a president and his field commanders it should be necessary to delegate this authority over the use of nuclear weapons.

Famous Last Words

FELICE ORSINI (1819-1858)

The Italian patriot thought only of his country's independence. His activities to further this cause led to his being convicted of an attempt to assassinate Emperor Louis Napoleon III. As he swayed to the guillotine, he threw back his head, made an obscene and insulting gesture to the executioner, and cried out to the cheering spectators: "Viva l'Italia! Viva la Francia!"

ISAPWO MUKSIKA CROWFOOT (7-1890)

The Blackfoot chief died saying poetically: "A little while and I will be gone from among you, whither I cannot tell. From nowhere we come, into nowhere we go. What is life? It is a flash of a firefly in the night. It is a breath of a buffalo in the winter time. It is as the little shadow that runs across the grass and loses itself in the sunset."

SENSIBLE TREND IN MONEY

Good News Happily Not Understood

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

PROBABLY few Canadians read, and still fewer understood, the news from Tokyo in the past few days. It was good news for everybody; it indicated that human beings are not as stupid as they sometimes look and it proved that a world government of sorts already exists. But maybe, after all, the news is the better, or at any rate the safer, for not being understood. If the world public grasped what was under way at Tokyo it might well resist or even smash the most hopeful movement of these times.

The directors of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund were meeting in the Japanese capital to consider questions so complex that not one layman in a hundred thousand begins to comprehend them.

What do the experts mean when they advocate more "liquidity" in the world's business? What is happening to the ancient myth of gold, a rather useless metal, as the only true measurement of all value? And if things are going well as they seem to be going in the great industrial nations why are the experts so worried?

Problems

It would take several solid (and unread) columns of this newspaper merely to outline the problems focussed in Tokyo.

That world trade is growing almost three times as fast as the money supplies needed to finance it; that the United States, the world's financial giant, is living substantially on foreign credit and would be bankrupt if its creditors all demanded payment in gold as they are legally entitled to do; that West Germany is suffering acute financial obesity and can't stop foreign gold and dollars piling up in its vaults; that the poor countries are getting steadily poorer in comparison with the rich; in short, that the world's business is alarmingly distorted—these facts are all obvious to the experts.

Yet there is another and larger fact to be remembered: If the World Bank and Monetary Fund had not been created 20 years ago in a sudden flight of inspiration most likely the world economy would have sunk into chaos before now. Exactly that happened ten years after the First World War. It didn't happen after the Second.

Rescue Fund

In Canada especially we ought to realize that the Fund, a central pool of various national currencies, acts like a fire department to extinguish the first flames of economic conflagration. It was the Fund, backed by the British and American governments, that saved us from disaster in the dollar crisis of 1962. The same thing has been done for Britain and other countries in temporary trouble.

As a sister institution the World Bank has borrowed from the rich countries to invest in the poor, not adequately yet but sufficiently to demonstrate that the experiment is a success, and without the loss of a nickel, so far.

This double achievement, one of the largest in human experience, has been managed by a few little-known men of different races who have long since despaired of explaining their work to the general public. If they could have explained it the experiment would have been plunged into partisan politics too soon and undoubtedly demoralized.

The much simpler problem of tariffs already is in politics up to the neck because ordinary men can understand or misunderstand it. At this very hour the old illusion that the United States must restrict imports to protect its living standard is proclaimed by no less a figure than the Republican candidate for the vice-presidency, McKinley's "full dinner pail" for the working man has been polished up again as the symbol of rugged free enterprise, though that system is based on competition which tariffs prevent.

We need not be surprised by the irony of American politicians demanding smaller imports when the United States is selling abroad far more than it buys, when its whole economy is dependent on these sales, and when they must fall if foreigners cannot sell in the American market. This fallacy is common to all countries, including Canada, and to most politicians in search of local votes.

The World Bank and Fund, however, enjoy the peculiar advantage of non-partisan anonymity. They don't answer to local voters. The average politician is not interested in their mysterious work. Their policies never become campaign issues.

A Beginning

Nevertheless, in these two institutions, with their various auxiliaries, is the beginning of the only sort of apparatus that can successfully manage the modern world. Over a limited but vital area the principle of world government is firmly established. National governments dare not defy the drastic disciplines of the Bank or the Fund because their collapse would ruin everyone.

The international omelette cannot be unscrambled short of catastrophe. Instead, it must be vastly expanded with new ingredients, political as well as financial, when men are wise enough to see that unrestricted national sovereignty means anarchy. The alternative of sane co-operation will not be achieved at any fixed date or by any dramatic breakthrough. But as the news from Tokyo reminds us, it is growing quietly, almost invisibly, all the same.

FROM ROCKFORD, ILL.

By R. EVANS AND R. NOVAK

Liberals Still Drift Away From Barry

WITH seven weeks left before election day, Sen. Barry Goldwater has not won back liberal-to-moderate Republican defectives—and, more startling, isn't even trying to woo them.

This is at once the most unusual and the most damaging aspect of Goldwater's campaign after one full week on the road. For unless he can reassure anti-Goldwater Republicans in substantial numbers, he has no chance to be elected.

Goldwater, not always a happy warrior on the campaign trail, was ebullient last Friday as he ended a nine-state tour with a speech at the annual Republican corn boil in Oregon, Ill. He had reason to be pleased. His crowds had been gargantuan and zealous. More important, he had stopped frightening people with talks of nuclear weaponry and switched to the line his most politically astute advisors have long advocated: playing to an unmistakable but ill-defined discontent abroad in the land.

'Something Going On'

He now preaches a national revival: "I am convinced there is something going on in the country that none of us can put our finger on." Goldwater ad libbed at the Oregon, Ill., rally during one of the best political speeches he has ever made.

Yet, behind this facade of a campaign on the rise, there remains the untended problem of the disgruntled Republican left. Consider, for instance, Goldwater's appearance in Minneapolis, his next-to-last stop on the first week's tour.

An over-capacity throng of nearly 10,000 crowded into the Minneapolis Auditorium while another 2,000 Goldwaterites were roused by the Senator's denunciation for white backlash support.

Yet, this kind of speech was deeply troubling to the liberal Republicans who always have been the backbone of the Minnesota state party. They found no note of reassurance or reconciliation in Goldwater's Minneapolis address. The truth is that in Illinois, Minnesota, and other states, party peace is the farthest thought from the minds of Republicans. For all the public talk about harmony, the party schism has been widening—narrowing in the two months since San Francisco.

Illinois Split

In Illinois, many local Goldwater-for-President offices flatly refuse to stock campaign literature for Charles Percy, the moderate Republican running for Governor. In Minnesota, prominent moderate party leaders have yet to receive so much as a telephone call asking for their help in the Goldwater campaign.

Rather, William McFadden, the energetic and highly skilled head of the Minnesota Citizens for Goldwater-Miller, is building a separate statewide precinct organization parallel to the regular party organization.

Ostensibly constructed for the purpose of keeping the regular Republican organization on its toes, everybody realizes Mc-

Fadden's operation is setting the stake for an agonizing struggle over Minnesota state party control.

Goldwater is far removed from this turmoil. The unique nature of his campaign so far insulates him from much contact with the general electorate or even the general Republican electorate.

There is no effort to assemble the populace on the sidewalks when Goldwater passes through a town. His well-filled rallies are attended primarily by committed Goldwaterites rounded up by his organization.

Stacked Audience

The giant Minneapolis crowd, for example, included some 3,000 out-state Republicans bussed into the Twin Cities (with details arranged by no less than 162 separate workers in the well-oiled McFadden organization).

But as the rally ended, a Minneapolis matron long active in party work left the hall wearing a button boasting Wheelock Whitney for U.S. Senator but no Goldwater button.

"Where's your Goldwater button tonight?" she was asked.

"Tonight? I haven't ever put one on," she replied.

She and other moderate Republicans won't put on those Goldwater buttons without some wooing from the Senator, and the time for such romancing is growing short.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Liquor Outlet

The Attorney-General's reasons, as stated in the press, for not placing a liquor outlet in the Town and Country area are ridiculous, bordering on the insane. As regards the stated policy of not placing them in shopping centres, this seems remarkably odd, in view of the liquor stores now operating at the Colwood, and Fort and Foul Bay Roads shopping centres—as well as numerous others in shopping centres on the Mainland.

In any case, what is the difference between a "Shopping Centre" and a "Shopping District"—except that the former is possibly more easily accessible.

Furthermore, the excuse that the Town and Country area was too close to the new location at Johnson and Government Streets is most startling, observing that the distance is approximately two miles while that of the new Johnson-Government site is less than one-eighth of a mile from the Humboldt Street store. It appears that in each case the ground rules are changed for Saanich, and one ponders the question of why this discriminatory action against Saanich.

Personally, I hold no brief for any specific area or site for the liquor store as this is of no particular importance. What is important, however, is the blatant disregard of Council recommendations, without consultation with them. Also the denial of the wishes of a large number of Saanich residents by a despotic bureaucracy and its "take it or leave it" attitude, for reasons which have not been revealed—and certainly not for the lame excuses which have been given.

It is unfortunate that people are generally apathetic in matters of this nature; otherwise a general appeal might prove of some value if the residents of Saanich were to remind the gentlemen concerned, by phone or letter that they are, after all, the peoples' public servants and not their masters.

Deeply Resented

Regarding the show "The Establishment" which is coming to the Royal Theatre in the near future, the agent from Montreal is wrong in her statement that no one in London objected to the satire on Her Majesty, the Queen.

Many people in England deeply resented the indignity to Her Majesty, as letters from relatives and friends, and some newspapers indicated at that time, and which we would expect from all true Britons.

We also know that there are many Canadians in Victoria who feel the same way, and who object strongly to our beloved Queen being made the butt of satire, which calls forth cheap morose laughter as witnessed in New York. In equally poor taste was the satire on 'The White House' Washington.

Yes, we can and do laugh at ourselves, but we can hit back. Surely the line for dignity and decency must be drawn somewhere, though as one grows older, one sometimes despairs and wonders.

M. J.

Unfair to Dief

In the opinion of many fair-minded citizens, the Victoria Daily Times has once again stooped to an all time low in journalistic ethics.

I refer to the concerted attempt on the part of your paper to thoroughly discredit and blacken the name of John Diefenbaker. Here we have one of Canada's finest statesmen, one of Canada's greatest patriots and one of Canada's most notable Conservatives. Not only is John Diefenbaker respected by many at home but also by millions abroad. You have failed to reckon with his vast popularity in your printing of antagonistic and unfounded articles. You cannot mislead the bulk of the Canadian people.

For Tourist, of Course, But Real

"YOU will see on your left," said Joe, who gave the spiel and drove the bus from Quebec City to Ste. Anne de Beaupre, "one of the old communal-bake ovens, restored. This," he continued with that slight inflection French Canadians use to decorate their English, "is the way all the bread used to be baked. We will stop and you can try a piece if you like."

So we stopped on a bright summer afternoon at the wayside stand where astute old settlers have refurbished an ancient institution to give tourists a reminder of an earlier day in French Canada—and relieve them cheerfully of a bit of silver. At a dime for half a slice of still-warm home-made bread covered with what I believe was home-made butter, it was a bargain. And the busman girl who spoke French to you threw in a smile that was worth two bits.

Of course this is tourist bait. So, also, are the not inexpensive bottles of maple syrup, the knitted or crocheted place mats, the needle-work wall rugs and blankets.

With the background story Joe told, they still carried an air of authenticity, became symbols of a life that existed on the north shore of the St. Lawrence east from Quebec City for maybe three centuries.

"These people," said Joe, "have only recently come out of the isolation winter used to force upon them. Now they can drive to Quebec in their cars because the road is kept open. But in the old days they couldn't go far by horse and cart and the river was blocked by ice. So they stayed in the house, made their handicrafts, bundled up and went to church on Sunday. They're 100 per cent Roman Catholic."

It didn't take much imagination to picture a small settlement, the farm work done, the vegetables stored in the root cellar—maybe some inexpensive wine in a mate to it—living out the cold winter in the bell-roofed, Norman-style houses. The days of hunting would be over. Stock would be fed in the barns. Chores would be relatively light. The days would be short and heat would come from the blazing maple and other wood harvested the spring before and stacked in fuel piles with geometric precision around the home.

Handicrafts, women's rug-hooking—needle-work and baking, men's wood carving would be essentials for the long evenings.

We stopped again later on the road to see one of the woodcarving shops—an unpretentious little place where the craft was being handed down from father to son and to grandchild. Special gouges and chisels rested on benches by carvings in progress. A big font was in the process of production. Small figures, religious items, the inevitable fisherman with his rod bent over his back and the hook caught in the seat of his britches, stood on their shelves, priced reasonably, it seemed to me.

On we went to the shrine and the basilica of St. Anne—a monument to devotion and to the success of the St. Anne story so expertly developed by those who have created this imposing and wealthy goal of pilgrims.

A little sad, it seemed, to see a cripple hobbling on his crutches from the centre of miracles, and a small, ascetic nun borne in a wheelchair about the place where faith is credited with many cures.

Returning to the city we took the new highway paralleling the river. Here fast boats, their outboards attached, lie moored in open fields, waiting for the tide to cover the 100 or 200 yards of grass between them and the bank. And offshore the poles of eel-traps lift skeletal fingers from the mud.

"The farms, you will notice," said Joe, "hextend to the river and back up to the hill, thin strips. This is because the farmer divided his land for his sons and because each son needed an outlet on the river to fish and to launch his boat for travel and also needed wood way up the hill, back from the river, to keep his fires going in winter."

We came rolling back to Quebec, trying to make connections for a couple due to catch the New York-bound bus, but not in such a hurry that we couldn't stop to see Montmorency Falls. They look much as they looked in old school geography books.

You know you've been on a conducted tour. You know a lot of the sights would disappear if it weren't for the visitor industry. At the same time you feel a certain genuineness in the character of the points of interest shown to you. This, in part, is the way Canada was for a large slice of its history. And the maple, occasionally turning color early, actually was that shade of red. It hadn't been painted crimson for the tourist.

Martin Jabs At NATO

'Independents'

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin Tuesday night criticized creation of national nuclear forces and of a development of an integrated multilateral seaborn nuclear strike force as a means of achieving greater sharing in the military direction of the North Atlantic alliance.

He thus selected some pretty big targets for criticism: Britain and France have or are building relatively small national nuclear forces and the United States and West Germany are pushing formation of an eight-nation NATO seaborn nuclear force.

Mr. Martin also said there must be greater co-ordination between the civilian and military branches of NATO and indicated that Canada is concerned that the alliance hasn't completed a defence review ordered by the NATO council at its meeting here in May, 1963.

The Canadian government had hoped that this review might make it possible for this country to withdraw from its nuclear role in the alliance.

WANT GREATER SHARE

Mr. Martin said in a speech to the Atlantic Treaty Association here that some Western European countries feel they should have a greater share in the military direction of the alliance.

"Some of these countries have tried to meet this problem by creating a national nuclear force. This is not, however, a feasible course for most members nor do we regard it, on balance, as a desirable course to follow."

"There have also been suggestions for a partly multilateral approach to this problem but this solution does not really meet the preoccupations of those who are looking for a greater sharing of responsibility within the alliance."

"We think there may well be a middle course that has not been sufficiently explored."

"Could we not make use of our existing machinery to bring about a greater sharing of the military direction of the alliance, particularly in the areas of the command structures, strategic planning and targeting as well as in the sharing of costs?"

"To insist that some countries now can make a greater contribution to the common burden without coming seriously to grips with the actual sharing of military direction seems to me to be as unpromising as the reverse line of approach."

This appeared to be a reference to French withdrawal from some NATO commands.

Mr. Martin also seemed to be criticizing France when he said that all NATO members have the duty of supporting United Nations peacekeeping operations and of contributing their "due share of their cost."

France refused to contribute toward the cost of the UN operation in the Congo.

Mr. Martin said there is a long way to go toward completion of the review of NATO defence policy ordered 17 months ago.

"I cannot escape the feeling that the long-term effects of not achieving some agreement in the fields of strategy, military integration, nuclear control, command structure and cost-sharing are bound to detract from our effectiveness as an alliance in using the forces we have at our disposal," he said.

Insurance Plea Made For Arthritic Victims

KELOWNA (CP)—Crippled persons receiving hospital treatment on an out-patient basis should be covered by government hospital insurance, Mary Pack, executive director of the B.C. Division of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, said here Tuesday.

Addressing a regional meeting of CARS, Miss Pack said that despite gains in the fight against arthritis, victims can receive only partial benefit without government support.

DEMOCRATIC Senator Strom Thurmond, of South Carolina, was expected to announce in a television appearance tonight that he would bolt his party to support Republican presidential nominee Senator Barry Goldwater. Sen. Thurmond ran for president in 1948 on a States Rights Party platform. He would neither confirm nor deny in advance of his speech the speculation that he will switch party allegiance. (AP Wirephoto).

Laval U Rebuffed

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Union of Students Tuesday voted 25 to 1 to reject a Laval University resolution that the union dissolve itself and reform into parallel French and English operations. This action is expected to induce the withdrawal of Laval, last of the French-language Quebec universities in the union before the union's 28th congress ends tonight.

LBJ Race Bias Alleged

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Representative William E. Miller of New York charged Tuesday that President Johnson had practiced discrimination in a land sale. The Republican vice-presidential candidate accused Johnson of inserting an anti-Negro covenant in the deed for property he sold in 1945 to a former mayor of Austin and said this exposed Johnson's current stand for equal rights as "hypocrisy." There was no immediate comment from Johnson. Miller told a crowd of about 4,200 at the Texas Republican state convention that Johnson and his wife acquired in 1938 a tract of land in Austin and that the deed contained no restrictive covenant.

Yet, he continued, when the Johnsons sold seven lots in 1945 to Austin's late mayor, Tom Miller, also a Democrat, an anti-Negro clause was written into the deed that conveyed the property.

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

Gordon Head Show on Saturday

Any gardener will get more than his money's worth by visiting a half dozen of our local fall flowers and vegetable shows.

Newcomers in particular find that they are able to see a living catalogue with full color plates spread out before them.

One of the chief advantages is that everything they see has been grown locally, and while gardens vary in their individual climates, a fine over-all picture of possibilities may be obtained.

Information is freely given at these shows. If a particular flower or plant happens to be unnamed any official will be glad to hunt it up for you.

This Saturday will see the staging of the 10th annual show of the Gordon Head Garden Club in the community hall on Tyndall Avenue.

ALL-TIME HIGH

Judging by the amazing number of new homes which have sprung up in the area during the past few years, interest in gardening must have reached an all-time high.

There is still time to make entries of flowers, fruits and vegetables for this show; one does not need to be a member of the club. Friday, at 6 p.m. is the deadline for entries to reach Mrs. A. Whittaker (phone 477-6064).

House plants, and an extensive junior section for children up to 16 years, help to round out a show which has gone ahead during the last 10 years, and proved its worth to the community.

SYNOPSIS

An east to west line 100 miles north of the international border marks a sharp transition between cloudy skies and clear skies as far as the Interior is concerned. Almost clear skies exist south of this line while considerable cloud and precipitation is noticeable north of it. However, this line will gradually move southward and by this evening showery conditions will be general throughout B.C. with a continuing flow of moist air into the province. Not much change is in store for Thursday.

HIGH-FLYING MUMS GOING BACK 'OME

Chrysanthemums grown by members of the Victoria Horticultural Society and Victoria Chrysanthemum Society will be shown for the first time at the National Chrysanthemum Show in London, England, this weekend.

The flowers are being shown to promote flower-growing on Vancouver Island.

Many blooms grown here are from original cuttings sent out from England. They will not be entered in the judging section.

The flowers were packed by Jones Wholesale Floral Co. and put aboard an Air Canada plane this morning.

Traffic Men See Film On Accidents

Local police traffic officers were guests of Victoria Kiwanis Tuesday.

The officers, from Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay attended the club luncheon for the showing of a film on road safety.

The film, "Anatomy of an Accident," was shown as part of the club's annual program to praise the efforts of the Junior Safety Patrols.

1,800 MEMBERS

Sponsored by the club since 1936, the patrols now have 1,800 members. Annual cost to the club of providing clothing and batons is $3,000.

Chairman of the Junior Safety Patrol committee, Howard Potter, said that to date there had been no major accident in the area of these patrols.

Police officers present were: Con. Harold Bird, Oak Bay; Insp. Brooke Douglass, Victoria; Con. Ray Thomas, Victoria; Sgt. Ted Owens, Saanich, and Con. Rick Avison, Saanich.

Pensioners Ask Lower Bus Fares

VANCOUVER (CP) — An elderly citizens group Tuesday asked for consideration of lower fares and faster service by the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority transit system.

At the same time the federated legislative council of the Elder Citizens' Associations of British Columbia asked the Public Utilities Commission for bus fares of 10 cents cash.

C. W. Pulham, past president of the group, presented a brief to the commission continued hearing briefs on Hydro's application for a 10-cent fare increase.

Mr. Pulham suggested that lower fares and faster service for all bus riders as a means of reducing Hydro's transit debt.

For senior citizens he suggested reduced fares in off peak hours between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.

"If fares on buses are increased, and no provision is made for retired elderly people to use the buses at lower rates, then thousands of elderly people will be totally unable to meet the extra costs of transportation," he said.

Two Fined $50 For Obstructing Police Officer

Two youths who ganged up on a police officer each were fined $50 Tuesday and put on probation for six months.

Robert McLean, 1420 Elford, and Robert Painton, 1037 Tillicum, were earlier found guilty of obstructing a police officer and causing a disturbance.

The offence occurred early on the morning of June 6 when Constable Murray MacArthur made a routine check on a car parked on the lot of an Oak Bay Avenue service station.

The driver of the car gave the officer some trouble and McLean and Painton, passengers in the car, joined in to try and prevent Const. MacArthur from arresting the driver.

Magistrate William Ostler fined the two of them $50 each on the charge of causing a disturbance. They were put on probation on a $250 bond on the other charge.

Root Beer Jam

ALHAMBRA, Calif. (UPI) — Broken glass and a river of foam tied up traffic on the out-bound San Bernardino Freeway here for nearly two hours Tuesday when a truck dumped 270 cases of root beer.

GRID FANS GRAB MAN AFTER WOMEN STABBED

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—Spectators Tuesday night overwhelmed a man after he stabbed two women in the grandstand at Civic Stadium at the end of a Canadian Football League game.

Police charged Raymond Edward Legault, 29, estranged husband of one of the women, with wounding with intent. He was to appear in court today.

Mrs. Irene Legault, 26, and her sister, June Montgomery, 28, were in satisfactory condition with stab wounds to the upper parts of their bodies.

Ehman's Pair Sparks Leafs

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Boston Bruins 5-2 in London Tuesday night to take both exhibition games between the two National Hockey League clubs. Toronto beat Boston 3-0 in Peterborough Saturday.

Geoffrey Ehman scored twice for Leafs while Billy Harris, rookie Terry Clancy and Jim Pappin added the others. The Boston goals were scored by Wayne Rivers and Tommy Williams.

Toronto goalie Johnny Bower, who let six third-period shots into the net in Leafs' defeat by Chicago Black Hawks Sunday, allowed one goal Tuesday before he was replaced by Terry Sawchuk in the third period. Ed Johnston went all the way for Boston.

In Montreal, more than 90 players turned out for the opening of the Canadiens' training camp at the Forum.

The large turnout is accounted for by the fact that the Omaha Knights of the Central League and Cleveland Barons of the American League are combining their training camps with the Canadiens. All players will be given a chance to make the parent club.

All of last season's Canadiens are back with the exception of right winger Bernie Geoffrion who has retired to coach Quebec Aces of the AHL.

Canadiens play their first league game Oct. 13 against the Rangers at New York. They play an exhibition schedule of four intra-squad games and 10 exhibitions starting with an intra-squad match at the Forum Saturday.

AFL-CFL Game Seems Possible

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian Football League's proposal for a 1965 all-star game against the American Football League "stands a good chance," says one of the men handling negotiations.

Herb Capozzi, general manager of the CFL's British Columbia Lions, said Tuesday night he has been told by AFL president William Sullivan that the game will be discussed at the AFL's annual meeting in January.

He said both Sullivan and David Werblin of New York Jets, who form the AFL committee on the game, are "very enthusiastic about the proposition."

Sudbury Next For Columbus

SUDBURY (CP)—Sudbury Italia Flyers won the Eastern Canada amateur soccer championship here with a 4-0 win over Montreal St. Paul Rovers.

The Flyers piled up a 3-0 lead by half time, then held Montreal in check for the second half. Some 1,700 fans saw the game, a replay of last weekend's match in Montreal that wound up in a 2-2 tie after two overtime periods.

Centre forward Ferruccio Deni and outside right Dario Petovello scored two goals each giving Sudbury the right to play in the Canadian finals against Vancouver Columbus.

HAMILTON (CP)

Larry Robinson of Calgary Stampede and Don Sutherin of Hamilton Tiger-Cats have much in common. Both are place kick specialists who are leading the Western and Eastern Football Conferences respectively in points scored.

But Sutherin's talents deserted him Tuesday night and the result was a 20-18 victory for the Stampede over Hamilton before more than 25,000 Tiger-town fans and shot the Calgary into first place in the WFC standings.

The Hamilton loss enabled them to maintain a second-place tie in the east with Montreal Alouettes, each with six points—three behind the league-leading Ottawa Rough Riders.

Robinson brought his points total to 56 with two converts and two field goals. The second field goal late in the fourth quarter overcame an 18-17 deficit in a Canadian Football League interlocking game.

Sutherin regained the scoring leadership in the East with 41 points as he kicked four singles and two converts. But three of the singles were meant to be field goals.

Coleman Gallops

Calgary halfback Lovell Coleman was another major factor in the Calgary attack. The Stampede halfback galloped 85 yards for one touchdown and ran another 50 yards to set up a two-yard touchdown by quarterback Eagle Day.

Coleman gained a total of 238 yards rushing to better the old WFC mark of 224 yards set earlier this season by Ed Buchanan of Saskatchewan Roughriders. The CFL record of 287 yards is held by Ron Stewart of Ottawa Rough Riders.

The victory gave the Stampede 12 points and sole possession of first place in the WFC. British Columbia Lions and Saskatchewan Roughriders are tied for second with 10 points each.

Halfback Bob Gaiters and quarterback Bernie Faloney scored the Hamilton touchdowns.

Sutherin kicked a single from the starting kickoff and put the Ticks ahead 3-0 with two singles that came off field goal attempts.

Interception Helps

Coleman, the strongman of the Calgary backfield, then made his sensational 85-yard dash into touchdown territory and Robinson booted the convert to give the Stampede a 7-3 lead.

Harvey Wylie intercepted Faloney's pass on the first play of the second quarter and ran it from the 18 to Calgary's 51-yard line. Coleman went through a hole in the Hamilton line and romped to the Hamilton two. Day carried it across on a keeper and Robinson again converted.

Robinson booted his first field goal 42 yards to give Calgary a 17-3 lead before the Tiger-Cats finally came to life and Gaiters and Faloney ran for touchdowns. Sutherin converted both to end the first-half scoring.

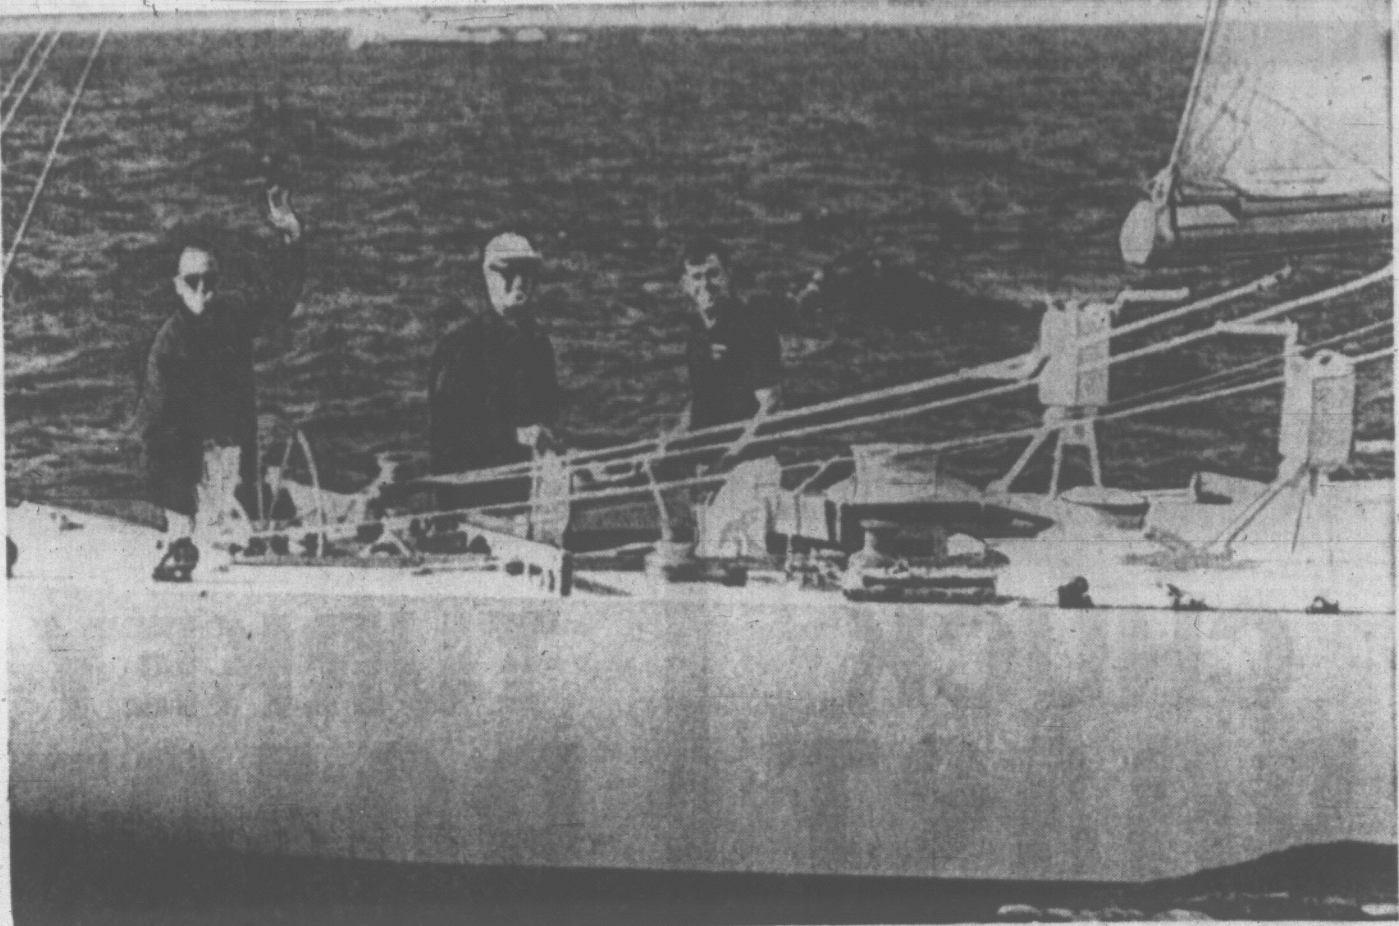

Sutherin missed his third successive field goal attempt in the third quarter, points that could have given Hamilton a tie.

Robinson booted the 24-yard field goal at 10:30 of the final quarter for the winning points.

It was a complete reversal of form for the Stampede, who lost 52-12 to Ottawa Saturday. They outtrashed Hamilton 286 yards to 106 although Faloney's aerial attack gained the Ticks 203 yards against Calgary's 53.

But Faloney had three throws intercepted and his passing average of 11 completions in 23 tries was less than Calgary's as Day completed seven of 12 attempts.

TIME OUT

PUFFING CIGAR, skipper Eric Ridder waves from helm of Constellation seconds after U.S. sloop won first America's Cup race against Britain's Sovereign Tuesday. Chief helmsman Bob Bavier (white cap) and Don Wakeman grin from cockpit.

CONSTELLATION ANOTHER STAR

Fluttering Mainsail Signalled Defeat

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—

Another defeat for heartbroken Britain on the yachting seas.

That's the way the 1964 America's Cup race shaped up today—and after only one race.

There was evidence that the down-trodden Britons were not the most optimistic people in the sailing world. For they did not ask for a "lay day"—a 24-hour postponement of the second race.

That means that Constellation, the sleek U.S. defender in this 20th match in a series that started 113 years ago—and has yet to see the British win back their cup—had to go against blue-hulled Sovereign again today in the second of this best four-out-of-seven series.

Nowhere on the Newport waterfront could you find a bloke ready to bet a shilling on Peter Scott's chances with Sovereign against Robert Bavie, Jr., and Eric Ridder on the Connie.

Constellation trounced Sovereign Tuesday by almost a mile and a time margin of five minutes, 34 seconds in the race around a six-leg, 24.3-mile course that took the winner three hours, 30 minutes and 27 seconds to complete.

Usually when a boat is beaten in this world series of yachting, the losers ask for the layover to study their mistakes. There have been costly errors. Britain has spent the bulk of an estimated $44 million over the years to get the silver cup.

The spectator fleet which stayed close to the leading Constellation affected both boats with their wake and the British were informed that the Coast Guard would study how to remedy that situation.

Scott was not bitter about it although he did acknowledge that the rough water churned up by the relatively small flotilla of 200 spectator craft probably did affect Sovereign more than Constellation.

He said he had no idea of making representations. "It would be churlish, anyway," he said.

That was a far cry from some of the feuds of the past. Lord Dunraven once charged the Americans were sneaking aboard their boat at night to change its ballast and London newspapers hinted that one American boat really had an engine below waterline.

Bavie, the 46-year-old helmsman, and Ridder, co-helmsman and principal financier of the Connie, radiated confidence after the race. Bavie had sailed the boat the first four—and most crucial—legs and Ridder the last two.

Asked the most encouraging thing about the race, Ridder said: "The fact that we won, I guess?"

The same question was put to Scott.

"The fact they didn't beat us by more," he said.

The urbane and witty Scott, a 54-year-old champion glider pilot as well as a skipper, said jokingly that the yachts had circled so much jockeying for position at the start that "I began to get dizzy."

Veteran yachtsmen were agreed that the British sails were the weakest point, but Scott would not go along with that. It was pointed out that his mainsail fluttered and flapped while the Constellation's big sail pulled smoothly. Scott was asked if that was unusual.

"No, I'm afraid that is its normal behavior."

Bavie got Constellation off to the far superior start and he was never headed from that time on. The British did close in on the American boat on two legs but the overall lead was never in question.

YANKS SELECT NEGRO FOR DAVIS CUP SERIES

NEW YORK (AP)—Chuck McKinley, Dennis Ralston, Arthur Ashe and Martin Riessen were chosen Tuesday by the Davis Cup committee as the defending United States tennis team in the challenge round against Australia at Cleveland Sept. 25-27.

Harry Hopman, the veteran Australian captain, said his team will be composed of Roy Emerson, Fred Stolle, John Newcombe and Tony Roche.

Ashe is the first Negro ever to be named to a U.S. Davis Cup team for the challenge round.

'Kraut' Line Loses Bauer

KITCHENER, Ont. (UPI)—Bobby Bauer, a former member of the famed Boston "Kraut Line" of the thirties, died here in hospital this morning of a heart attack. He was 49.

Bauer, who played right wing with Milt Schmidt, now coach of the Bruins, and left-winger Woody Dumart, now a Boston businessman, collapsed while playing golf Saturday.

He was admitted to hospital Wednesday.

Although Bauer retired from National Hockey League action in 1947, he kept his hand in the field and coached the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen for the 1959-60 season.

Bauer twice coached losing Canadian Olympic hockey teams—1956 at Cortina, Italy, and 1960 at Squaw Valley, Calif. His younger brother, Father David Bauer, coached another losing Canadian Olympic team last winter at Innsbruck. Bobby was there in an advisory capacity.

All three members of the Kraut Line came from the Kitchener-Waterloo, Ont., area. HONORED BY MATES

During his National Hockey League career, Bauer, a three-time Lady Byng winner, scored 123 goals. He was the first member of the Kraut Line to retire from professional hockey, dropping out of the game shortly after returning from the Second World War. His last goal came five years after he quit, coming out of retirement to play one game in 1952 on a Dumart-Schmidt-Bauer night.

He, Schmidt and Dumart all joined the Royal Canadian Air Force the same day, Jan. 10, 1942. Fellow Boston players carried the "Kraut Line" off on their shoulders and Schmidt has called the occasion "one of the biggest thrills of my life."

Bauer, born Robert Theodore Bauer in Kitchener, Feb. 16, 1915, was small as hockey players went in his day at 5-6, 150 pounds.

"He was an amazing hockey player," said NHL president Clarence Campbell, "when you consider he played in an era in which there were so many big men and he still managed to win the Lady Byng (most gentlemanly player) award and finish on the second all-star team four times."

What created all the fuss when Kelso was left off the team was the fact that in the breaststroke heats, Kelso turned in a time of 2:40.4 minutes for a Canadian record.

Kelso's fast time is only three seconds off the Olympic record.

Kelso has only one way of making the Olympic selection committee change their minds. He must win the 200-yard breaststroke event, and he must win it well enough to make the committee sit up and take notice.

He'll have his last chance Saturday when the Olympic team makes its last appearance in Canada.

Boxing Council Hollers 'Shame'

VENICE, Italy (AP)—Delegates to the World Boxing Council meeting voiced mystification Tuesday over the decision of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission to stage the world title return bout between heavyweight champion Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston.

From a Filipino delegate, Justiniano Montano of the Oriental Boxing Commission, came, outright condemnation. "It is a shame. I cannot understand how Massachusetts could have okayed that meeting," he said.

Ed Lassman, World Boxing Association representative from Miami Beach, Fla., told the congress: "I am very surprised that the Massachusetts body approved that fight."

Lassman added he had cabled Merv McKenzie, of Toronto, newly elected WBA president, for further details and would say no more until he received a reply. McKenzie suspended both Clay and Liston, Monday, as well as the Massachusetts Boxing Commission.

The World Boxing Council is made up of the WBA, the European Boxing Union, the British Boxing Board of Control, the Latin American Boxing Union and the Oriental Boxing Federation.

"CAN'T UNDERSTAND IT" Gen. Melvin Krulwich, chairman of the New York Athletic Commission, is attending the meeting as an observer. He told a newsmen: "I can't understand it, either. Massachusetts voted against the fight at the WBA meeting in Norfolk, Va. now this."

In yeasting Clay's title, McKenzie named four candidates for an elimination tournament to determine the next heavyweight champion.

The WBA's top four candidates were: 1. Ernie Terrell, of Chicago; 2. Cleveland Williams, of Houston; 3. Floyd Patterson, of Scarsdale, N.Y., and Doug Jones, of New York.

Everybody Loves Leos Herb, But—

VANCOUVER (CP)—There's a bet on between general managers that British Columbia Lions have more fans in Edmonton than the Eskimos.

Herb Capozzi of the Lions said Tuesday night he plans to win the bet Saturday when the clubs meet in a Western Football Conference game at Edmonton's Clarke Stadium. He has a firm wager with Joe Ryan, the Eskis' general manager.

"We'll have a booth set up and we'll give out B.C. Lions' badges to any fans who will admit they are bona fide B.C. supporters," he said.

"I want to prove to Ryan and the rest of the Western Conference that the Lions are not only the best club in the league in regard to their playing record on the field, but they are also the west's sentimental favorites."

Eskimos are fourth in standings, Lions still unbeaten but second, two points behind Calgary Stampede.

St. Louis College, Victoria, and Gordon Head emerged with victories after Sunday's play in the Norm Fieldgate Bantam Football League at Bullen Park.

St. Louis toppled Oak Bay 32-2, Victoria romped past Glen Lake 19-6, and Gordon Head defeated Esquimalt 16-6.

STILL SEATS LEFT FOR TOKYO

Kelso Will Be Churning Up a Storm Saturday

The pre-Olympic Open and age-group swimming meet at the Crystal Garden Saturday and Sunday may turn out to be a re-run of the Olympic trials.

With only 11 out of a total complement of 14 swimming berths filled on Canada's Olympic team, there are still three empty seats on the plane to Tokyo.

And these seats could be filled right up to take-off time if the Olympic selection committee sees fit.

One notable who will attempt to prove he is worthy of a berth is Vancouver breaststroker Jack Kelso.

A number of eyebrows were raised when the team was announced, and Kelso was not on it. For the 24-year-old Kelso, this will be virtually his last chance to attend an Olympic competition.

The Canadian team needs a breaststroke swimmer for the relay medley event. So far there is nobody on the team to swim the breaststroke leg of the medley.

In the Olympic trials in Vancouver recently, Kelso had a bad night. He came in second in his specialty when he should have won it easily.

He finished with a time of 2:43.6 seconds, compared to winner Marvin Chase with a clocking of 2:42.0.

... AND JACK WANTS ONE BADLY

What created all the fuss when Kelso was left off the team was the fact that in the breaststroke heats, Kelso turned in a time of 2:40.4 minutes for a Canadian record.

Kelso's fast time is only three seconds off the Olympic record.

Kelso has only one way of making the Olympic selection committee change their minds. He must win the 200-yard breaststroke event, and he must win it well enough to make the committee sit up and take notice.

S. RHODESIA RAISES PRICE OF A VOTE

SALISBURY (Reuters)—The government has raised by 10 per cent the financial qualification a Southern Rhodesian must meet to register as a voter in parliamentary elections. The increase took effect immediately.

The population of Southern Rhodesia is about 200,000 whites and about 4 million Negroes.

About 91,000 whites and 16,000 Negroes are qualified to vote at present.

The notice of increase said it was made because of the decrease in the purchasing power of the pound.

Negroes Enrol Without Fuss

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP)—The University of Mississippi announced two Negroes enrolled Monday for the fall semester in quiet contrast to rioting which accompanied racial desegregation here in 1962.

The university said Cleveland Donald, who began his freshman work during the summer term, was joined by Irvin Walker, another freshman.

The university news service said the two would room together.

"Nobody paid any attention to them," said Pat Smith, director of the news service.

Intelligent Life On Many Planets?

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Conditions favorable to life may be much wider spread through space than generally believed, a scientist says, and creatures as intelligent as man may inhabit thousands of planets in our own Milky Way galaxy.

Dr. Harrison Brown, California Institute of Technology geochemist, says he has found evidence that other suns in the galaxy have planets of which perhaps two would orbit at the right distance to provide suitable environments for the emergence of life processes.

'Old Pats' to Meet Their Princess

By BOB TRIMBEE

EDMONTON (CP)—In a nostalgic moment Saturday 10 old soldiers will parade before "their princess" and climax jubilee ceremonies of the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

The Patricia's, a crack Canadian airborne unit since 1947, were established in August, 1914, and bear the name of Princess Patricia of Connaught, daughter of the then Governor-General of Canada.

The regiment was the first Canadian unit to see action in the First, Second and Korean Wars and has won more military decorations than any other Canadian unit.

The Princess, now Lady Patricia Ramsay, has been the regiment's only colonel-in-chief and no other member of the British Royal Family can claim to hold a similar honor as long or with a regiment named in their honor.

LAST APPEARANCE

The celebrations at Edmonton, the Patricia's adopted home since 1957, were expected to be the last major public appearance for Lady Patricia, now 78.

The 10 old soldiers were among 1,098 who answered the call to colors in 1914 and will lead a group of former Patricia's who will parade for the last time before Lady Patricia.

The march past will climax a 90-minute trooping the colors ceremony by 300 members of the 2nd Battalion. More than 5,500 spectators were expected to see Lady Patricia place a replica of the Wreath of Laurel on the battalion's color. The original is carried by the 1st Battalion, now serving in Europe, 2nd Battalion with its color at The visit to Canada by Lady Patricia will be the first since 1953 when she presented the

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan, and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

FAILURE RATE HIGH

Rough Voyage Ahead for Cadets

Seventy-three young men between 17 and 24 years of age face a challenging 12 months of training as the navy's short-service officer plan begins its second year.

They started training Sept. 4 at HMCS Venture at HMC Dockyard but they had already been through "A" Vigorous "shakedown cruise."

Earlier this year 1,000 applicants were screened and 200 selected to go to Centralia, near London, Ont., for 10 days of aptitude and physical testing. Seventy-three made it back to Victoria.

And they face bettering the record of the 1963 cadets of which 50 per cent failed.

Last year, 93 short service plan cadets reported to Venture. By December, 20 were sent to their homes across the country when the aviation cadets (about half of the original 93) went to the RCAF training establishment at Centralia. Graduation exercises will be held for 13 of the original 43 surface cadets Sept. 26.

This year there are 36 aviation cadets and 37 surface (sea-going) cadets striving to make the grade.

And they have a better chance to do it than the 1963-64 crop, according to Venture's new commanding officer, Cdr. William H. I. Atkinson.

"There will not be so many failures this year as last because the first year of a program is always experimental," he said.

"If the selection board has done its job well, failures will be a minimum because we now know more of the type of man we are looking for in this program."

Basically, cadet training consists of leadership, naval knowledge, sports and physical training, parade training and expedition training.

'LOOK LIKE OFFICERS'

Before the cadets split into surface and aviation divisions, the first four months at Venture serve as an indoctrination period "so they can look like young officers."

For the next four months, the surface cadets receive practical sea experience aboard Pacific Command ships and spend the final four months polishing up their knowledge of weapons, damage control, firefighting and expedition training at HMCS Naden's Fleet School.

The cadets rise at 6:15 six mornings a week and go for a one-mile run before breakfast. A day of classes, drills and sports ends at 5:05 p.m. The cadets have a two-hour study and recreational period between 7 and 9 p.m. before lights out.

"But they don't have to study," said Cdr. Atkinson. "It's up to the man whether he gets through."

Once World's Biggest Daily Herald Expires

By GEOFFREY MINISH

LONDON (Reuters)—The Daily Herald, once the world's largest selling newspaper, ceased publication Monday although it still had a circulation of 1,200,000.

In its place Tuesday emerged The Sun, first national daily newspaper to be launched in Britain in 30 years.

The Herald, which began life as a printers' strike sheet and became the organ of the British Labor party, closed down with issue No. 15,090.

Although in 1933 The Herald became the first newspaper in the world to gain 2,000,000 readers, its circulation had dropped in recent years.

Last January the paper was reported to be losing more than £800,000 a year.

The Herald's departure, on the eve of Britain's fall election, means the loss of an assured voice of support for the Labor party in Britain's national press where pro-government newspapers outnumber in readership those of the left by more than 2 to 1.

The Sun, published by the International Publishing Corporation, owners of The Herald, has stated it will be radical, free of party ties, and will appeal to "the emergent generation."

V.I. ROUNDUP

Park Site Urged For Rotary Pool

DUNCAN—A new swim pool in this area should be built in Pioneer Park, Rotary Club pool committee chairman Will Dobson says.

Rotarians are backing the project to the tune of $25,000.

Mr. Dobson came out in favor of the James Street site against engineers' advice.

He said the site had greater advantages than any other in the area from the standpoint of convenience; parking, services and general location in relation to other sports and recreational facilities.

Engineers were opposed because of the extra cost which would be incurred owing to a high water table.

Choosing a site has proved the biggest stumbling block in efforts to get the community pool under way.

Thanks From Winnie

PORT ALBERNI—A telegram from Winston Churchill to city council will be preserved for the future city archives.

In reply to a message sent by Mayor Les Hammer wishing the former British prime minister good health and wishes on his retirement from the Commons, Sir Winston thanked council for its felicitations.

Auditions Friday

DUNCAN—Auditions will be held Friday in St. Peter's Hall, Quamichan, for Duncan Musical Club's next production, Countess Maritza.

The auditions will take place before and after a regular club meeting at 8 p.m., during which a vice-president and two advisory board members will be elected.

Hotelman Fined

NANAIMO—An RCMP officer told magistrate's court on Tuesday he purchased beer by the glass and case from a Lantzville beer parlor operator in the kitchen of a private home.

Magistrate Eric Winch fined A. D. Callett $500 for selling liquor illegally.

Police said Callett was paid for the purchases in the kitchen with a marked $5 bill, seized later when police searched the premises of the Lantzville Hotel.

Officers said when they entered the hotel beer parlor Callett handed them the marked bill and told them: "This is what you have been looking for."

Plea to Students

NANAIMO—Students here were asked Tuesday by Staff-Sgt. Frank Slater, head of the local RCMP detachment, to co-operate in cutting down traffic hazards around district schools.

He said spot checks at schools showed some pupils breaking the Motor Vehicle Act regulations.

They walked on the wrong side of the road, walked more than two abreast, and did not always cross over the marked crosswalks.

He urged students, parents and school officials to be specially careful in wet weather and heavy morning and afternoon traffic.

Older students, he said, should set an example for the lower grades.

Cleric for Indians

PORT ALBERNI—A minister to work full time with the Indians of Alberni Valley has been appointed by the United Church.

The Rev. F. E. Kemppling will be inducted during service at 7 p.m. Sunday in the Alberni Residential School chapel.

Mr. Kemppling will work on both reserves and in the Twin Cities, in co-operation with the two local United churches.

In recent years he has served on reserves in Ontario and Alberta. He was vice-principal and Christian educational director at Alberni Residential School in 1960.

Conducting the induction service Sunday will be the Rev. K. D. Verkerk.

SEYFORTH ... back from Europe

LIFTING AN OCTOPUS is easy—the trick is to put it down, as a member of the Bohemian Skindivers Club of Victoria demonstrates. Big 'pod is being lifted back into salt water tank after weighing, and as expressions on bystanders' faces indicate, it's a sticky business. Same scene will be re-enacted Sunday when Canadian Open octopus grapple gets under way at Saxe Point, with skindivers from most of Pacific Northwest participating. Three-man teams win prizes for aggregate weight of the eight-armed they wrestle to surface.

RIGHTS DENIED SAYS REALTOR

NANAIMO (CP)—A Nanaimo real estate agent said Monday night city council should set up a five-man board to judge appeals from city decisions.

Dr. Mladen Zorkin, Canadian president of the International Real Estate Federation, told a stormy council session recent city decisions have denied his "basic right of appeal."

At issue is his application to stucco all four sides of his building on Fitzwilliam Street. He has been told a 1957 building code permits use of stucco on only two of the sides.

'NONSENSE'

Dr. Zorkin said he applied first to be heard by an appeal board but was told to go before council in a closed meeting. He was heard March 10 and Council later decided against him.

He told council Monday night: "You bring the law, you make the law, then you listen to the appeal. This is nonsense."

Council decided to consider the matter further at another closed meeting.

3-Mile Students Get Bus Rides Trustee Insists

Students outside the three-mile walking area around Royal Oak High School are still getting school bus service, says board chairman Reg Sinkinson, despite complaints by parents their children are walking more than three miles from Cordova Bay.

The Times had received complaints that some students were told Friday they would no longer be able to ride the school bus from Cordova Bay. Mr. Sinkinson said the school district is required to supply school bus service beyond the three-mile walking area, and in-bound buses without a full load would stop and pick up students not legally entitled to ride.

But this has had to be stopped where students outside the walking area fill up the buses.

"We're not required to give rides to students in the three-mile walking area," said Mr. Sinkinson.

"Getting to school is their problem."

The three-mile walking area is decided on the basis of closest routes on public roads.

Jaycees Doubled Their Pleasure

It takes a double celebration to celebrate a double celebration.

At least that's how it turned out Saturday when Victoria Jaycees celebrated the last week of their Tourist of the Week program by selecting two couples.

After both choices had been made, one on the B.C. Ferry Queen of Esquimalt, the other on the Mr. Coho from Port Angeles, it was discovered both couples were having their own celebrations.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nordon, Boston, Mass., had chosen Victoria as the ideal setting for their second honeymoon.

And Capt. and Mrs. Brent Senger from the Fairchild Air Force base near Spokane, were here to celebrate their fifth wedding anniversary.

The two couples were introduced to each other during a dance at the Crystal Garden Saturday night.

Anti-Birth Control Law Protests Urged

Housewives across the country were urged today to write their members of parliament to protest an anti-birth control section of the Criminal Code.

Mrs. Sheila Barone, 197 Egerton, said if enough women wrote their MPs the law would have to be changed.

Section 150 of the Criminal Code makes it illegal to sell, give or advertise any instruction, medicine, drug or article intended for use in birth control.

"I don't want the law wide open," she said. "But all those babies up for adoption—maybe a change would prevent this."

WRITES MP

Mrs. Barone, a mother of three, said she is writing George Chatterton, Progressive Conservative MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, asking if a trip to Ottawa "is worth it or in vain."

She is also asking him "Do you think the law is made by the people, for the people" and

"why was so much time spent on the flag debate?"

"What was vital about the flag debate," she asked in an interview. "The birth control law is outdated and should be changed before anything."

Six Vancouver housewives have asked city prosecutor Stewart McMorran to prosecute drug stores for selling contraceptives.

Group spokesman Mrs. Helen Jorgensen said the law is "foolish" and her group wants it removed.

Mr. McMorran said he is considering the matter "and that doesn't mean there is going to be prosecution or that there isn't."

Victoria prosecutor Peter Birckett said he had heard "of no such move here."

A high legal source said he could not recall a prosecution for years and thought this was because of "a general development of understanding."

Bed Reduction Draws Fire From Alderman

DUNCAN—A cutback in the number of beds for the proposed $3,500,000 Cowichan Hospital here was criticized Monday night by Ald. Hamish Mutter.

The aldermen told city council he's been informed the hospital will have 145 beds, not 165 as planned originally.

OVERCROWDING

He said this could lead to a similar situation as Nanaimo where the new hospital is already overcrowded.

Suggesting the old hospital be kept open after the new building is completed, he said:

"This area experiences an annual population increase of two per cent and we must have more beds."

GOVT REQUEST

Ald. James Saunders said the original hospital plans had to be cut down because of government requests and rising costs.

A shell on the top floor would provide for later extension. Ald. Mutter demanded a full report from council's representative on the hospital board—Ald. Saunders—at the next meeting. Council agreed to this request.

Alberni Passes On $450 Grant

ALBERNI—City Council will not support the Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau which has asked for $450 for tourist promotion in the Alberni Valley.

But $250 has been approved to the publicity bureau in Victoria.

Council decided that since the defunct Alberni Board of Trade joined the Port Alberni Chamber of Commerce, any donations would be duplicated by Port Alberni. Port has given $650 for tourist promotion to VIPB.

LOAN WORRIES TRUSTEE

'It's Up to Them' Says Secessionist

If the View Royal fire protection district has a loan to pay off, that's View Royal's problem, according to a secessionist leader.

Mrs. W. P. Rankin, 1440 Craigflower, says she is still determined the View Royal panhandle should join Esquimalt.

Her proposal is being fought by D. R. Preece, chairman of the fire protection district, who has written to Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell to hold up action.

He asked the minister to assure fire trustees the withdrawal of the 140 residents of the panhandle won't leave the rest of View Royal stuck with paying of a half-paid $30,000 fire protection loan from the provincial government.

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Fresh from attending a five-month architectural art course in Europe, well-known V.I. sculptor Charles R. Seyfort, hopes to introduce new ideas for decorating commercial buildings and private homes in Victoria.

Europe, especially Germany, is ahead of Canada in making use of art to give character to public buildings and places of business, he said.

"We should take a tip from them."

Mr. Seyfort attended the Academy of Fine Arts in Munich where he studied glass painting, mosaic and designing and making concrete murals—all in relation to architecture.

GLASS PAINTINGS

He said one of the most popular and striking decorative arts for buildings and private dwellings, were colored glass paintings.

Large panels are being used to decorate the interior of restaurants and the facade of public and private buildings.

"They are really striking," he said, "and make a building stand out. I would like to see this tried out in Victoria."

Simple concrete murals and mosaic designs are also being used extensively to improve the exterior of buildings, he said. Some of the designs sculptured on concrete are painted.

WORK TOGETHER

"One of the reasons Europe is ahead of Canada in architectural decoration," he explained, "is the close co-operation that exist between artists and architects."

"Architects and artists work hand in hand," he added. "The result is some attractive and imposing buildings at little extra costs."

Since his return from Europe the artist is convinced more than ever that Victoria needs a government-sponsored art school or academy.

The artist, who was accompanied by his wife and two children, said the highlight of their stay in Europe was a holiday in Yugoslavia which is becoming a favorite tourist haunt of Europeans.

"The country has beautiful beaches, the wine is good and cheap, and living costs lower than other European resorts," he said.

SATISFIED PEOPLE

He said he stayed at Opatija and there met the famous Yugoslav artist Juspj Zeman.

"The Yugoslavs are friendly people and as far as I could make out satisfied with their government," he said.

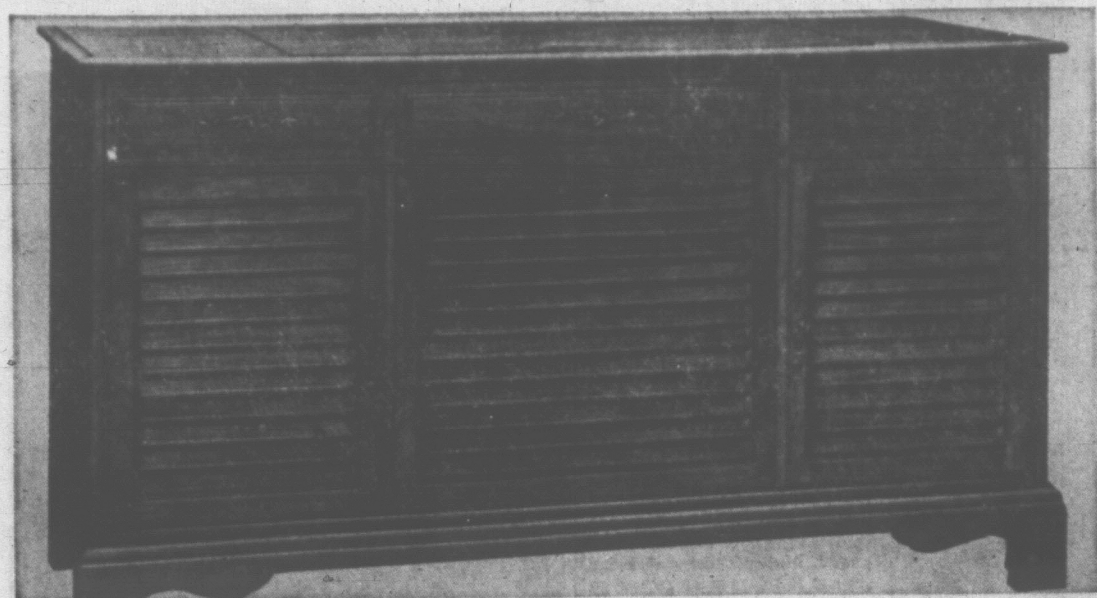

Mr. Seyfort also took a trip to Cassel where he saw Documenta III, the world's most famous exhibition of modern art. "It was worthwhile seeing this exhibition," he said. "The works of every internationally known artists was in the show."

Despite high living costs in Germany, Mrs. Seyfort said she thoroughly enjoyed her stay in Europe.

Butter she said, cost $1 a pound and coffee $1.50 a pound.

"We had to strain our budget at times," she said, "but it was worth it."

'Subterranean Executive Suite'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Grant Deachman, Liberal MP for Vancouver Quadra, said Tuesday that the Ottawa "bureaucracy" is so sheepish about the government's underground command post at Carp, Ont., that the Commons defence committee "has been deftly steered away from it through two sessions of Parliament."

He described the post in a speech before the Vancouver Rotary Club as "a fabulous underground bunker—a subterranean executive suite—down which a select group of ministers and mandarins would pop at the first whiff of atomic smoke."

Mr. Deachman, a member of the defence committee, described the defence department as "the Kremlin of Canadian bureaucracy" and said that if it were not for defence expenditures "Halifax would be no bigger than Nanaimo."

NEW CHURCH ACCORD

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Vatican officials look forward to further accords between the Roman Catholic Church and Communist governments.

The agreement announced Tuesday between the Vatican and Hungary was seen by sources here as a virtual breakthrough in relations between the church and Iron Curtain regimes.

Vatican authorities stressed that the agreement meant no lessening of church opposition to communism as a philosophy. But it was unmistakable evidence of the church's willingness to deal with Communist leaders to better the conditions of Catholics living in Communist-ruled lands.

Injured Whooping Crane Treated

MONTE VISTA, Colo. (AP)—A whooping crane, member of a nearly extinct species of bird, was flown from Canada to the National Wildlife Refuge here for treatment of a broken wing and chest injury.

Gene Knoder, head of the research centre at the refuge, said Tuesday the wing had been set and put in a splint and a three-inch splinter of wood removed from the breast of the three-month-old male crane.

The bird was spotted last week in an aerial survey of whooping crane nesting grounds in Wood Buffalo National Park. The cranes will leave later this month for their annual migration south.

Knoder said the injured bird would have been left behind and would have perished if it had not been spotted. There are only 32 known wild whooping cranes in the world.

The fact that we like it where we are doesn't keep us from dropping in at realtors' open houses, and the other evening we made two of the crowd tramping through an attractive, super-modern pocket villa in the lee of the hill our kids used to call Mount Tommy.

In a fit of the amiable whimsy that enlivens the real estate business, the sponsors of this dream-house had planned and tastefully furnished it for a hypothetical family.

The name was Downey. There was Jim, who relaxes from sweating out the mortgage in a basement play-room behind an Irish-motif bar, complete with toasts in Erse.

Jim's wife didn't seem to rate a name, or maybe we missed it. In any case, we assumed her to be busy somewhere around the place... vacuuming, dusting, or happily flipping switches in her all-electric kitchen.

On we prowled, looking but not touching, and comfortable in the illusion of a family in occupancy.

Then we came to the children's rooms, and our picture of the Downeys snug in their suburban castle shattered to smithereens.

They had been allotted two kids, youngsters whom we automatically presumed to be healthy, active, normal Canadian children.

Maureen was of an age to squeal over The Beatles, Gordon somewhat older.

We commenced with Maureen's room, nicely furnished and decorated by loving parents, strategically placed to command a bathroom, a perfect haven for a junior miss.

Sure, Maureen was a Beatle-squealer. The evidence was indisputable. From a wall plaque above her pillow, Ringo and his unshorn mates guarded her slumbers. A Beate T-shirt was draped across the bed, and Beate records lay neatly terraced on the rug.

But imagination had nose-dived here. The room, though sumptuous, was the merest shell, its tenant only a name thumbtacked over a doorway.

Where was the mess, the confusion, the evidence of hasty exits, the frantic clutter that sets mothers moaning?

Where the chawed apple core, brown and withering? Where the sandwich crust, the glass with milk dried in its bottom, the mangle socks, the crumpled jeans, the shirts overdue for a trip to the automatic washer-dryer in Mom Downey's sunny laundry nook?

Dismayed, we turned away. Still, girls are unpredictable; Maureen might have been seized by a temporary passion for neatness. In Gordon's lair, all would be different.

And was it? As a pathetic simulation of red-blooded maleness, a pair of boxing gloves dangled in view. A salmon rod, rigged with a shiny flasher, leaned carefully against a wall.

But no junk! No projects started and abandoned. No radio innards, or tropical fish-odd hatching maggots in a loose-lidded jar, or mysterious wires running under a window-sill, propped on a rusty belt-knife.

You knew with bleak certainty that a father in grumbling search of pirated flashlight batteries would never trip over a hubcap or a tennis racket on that floor. Tug on any cupboard door and no higgledy-piggledy of tattered sport-car magazines would swamp you. This wasn't boy-country. The climate was all wrong.

We roved a while longer, admiring here and criticizing there. Then we trundled off home.

"Where's the cat?" I asked Ron.

"Oh," he said vaguely, "asleep on my bed. I guess."

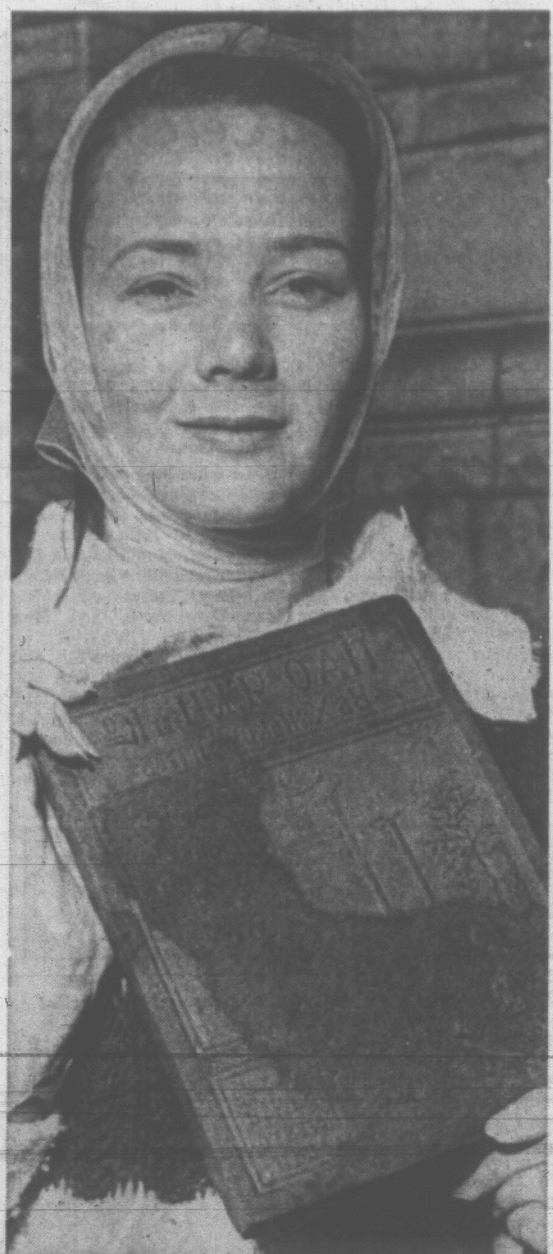

"Sue," Win called from down the hall, "those wire things in your closet are coat hangers. People hang clothes on them."

But she sounded more pleased than otherwise; and we knew why those unfortunate Downeys spent so much time in their Irish bar.

Their house wasn't a home. Their young weren't natural. What they had instead of human children, heaven help them, was a pair of monsters!

CAKE OF COMPRESSED-TEA believed to be more than 100 years old is held by Kristian Hill, a visitor from Vancouver. (Times photo.)

IT DARES TO BE KNOWN BY AGE ALONE

If you like vintage tea, Provincial Museum officials may oblige by pouring a brew made from tea at least 100 years old.

But they won't be responsible if there's any after-effect. The museum recently acquired the tea from Mr. and Mrs. George Williamson, 995 Jasmine, who found it among a box of antiques bought at an auction.

The tea is compressed into two cakes. One is shaped like a tile and is decorated with a pagoda design. On top are some words written in Russian which have yet to be translated.

The theory is that the tea originated in Tibet and was transported across the Gobi desert on a mule train to be eventually sold to Russian traders in Siberia.

From there it may have been shipped to Alaska before Russia sold the state to the United States in 1867. Traders there may have then sold the cakes to the Hudson's Bay Co. in exchange for garden produce farmed in and around Victoria.

Dr. Clifford Carl, director, said the tea is probably still good.

"But I wouldn't like to try it," he said. "It's a little too old for me."

Topics of the Day

In Naden Hospital are the driver, Pte. Maxie Yamolsky of Vancouver, Sgt. Hugh Miller of Nanaimo and Signaller Barry Patterson of Sooke.

They were riding with Cpl. A. L. Hyde who was unhurt. An army spokesman said all four were on their way to Nanaimo Military Camp.

Goldstream Chapter, Order of DeMolay, will meet at 7:30 tonight at Goldstream Masonic Temple, 679 Goldstream Avenue.

Victoria Chapter will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Knights of Pythias Hall, 723 Cormorant Street.

Victoria branch, Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, will tour the Bamberston plant of Ocean Cement Co. on Saturday at 9 a.m.

Esquimalt Dockyard branch No. 172, Royal Canadian Legion, will meet in its hall, 622 Admirals Road, tonight at 8.

Ask The Times

Q. What happened to HMS Warspite? M.M.

A. HMS Warspite, a British warship built in 1905, was sold for scrap in 1965 while stationed in England. The Warspite had two postings in Victoria—from 1890-93 and from 1899 to 1901.

She left here December 3, 1901, to return to England via San Diego and Cape Horn.

She left in company with another warship, HMS Condon, which was lost in a storm before the pair reached California.

Q. Can you please tell me when the John Birch Society was formed?

A. The anti-Communist movement was formed in 1958 by Robert H. W. Welch, Jr., a retired Massachusetts candy company executive.

GUN-HAPPY VANDAL HOBBLES PULP MILL

The shot missed but it delivered a staggering blow to Crown Zellerbach's sprawling pulp and paper complex near Campbell River.

A trigger-happy vandal, it seems, took a pot shot at an insulator on the power lines to the mill's pumphouse on Campbell River.

He missed.

The shot hit a wire.

A short-circuit was caused.

The result:

Without power, the pumphouse couldn't keep the water storage tanks full.

Water supply to the mill below was cut off.

ed to build up pressure when the water flow ceased.

Company officials became alarmed.

No. 1 paper machine had to be shut off for three hours and No. 2 machine for four-and-a-half hours.

The kraft mill couldn't get back into production for 24 hours.

The early shift at the sawmill was sent home.

Financial loss: $36,000—not counting loss in wages to the early shift.

Girl Bandit Asks, Gets 'Pen' Term

Court Reluctant To 'Up' Sentence

An 18-year-old girl bandit asked for and got a two-year penitentiary sentence when she appeared in city police court this morning.

Linda Buskey, 1520 Gladstone, was first sentenced to 18 months in Oakalla Prison.

She asked Magistrate William Ostler to send her to the penitentiary instead. He then reluctantly imposed a two-year term—the minimum that can be served at the B.C. Penitentiary.

The attractive, dark-haired girl pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing to robbing a downtown real estate office. She bluffed the staff she had a gun and got away with $83.

NEEDED EXCITEMENT

She was caught 10 minutes later. She told police that she pulled the holdup because the office looked like it needed a little excitement.

Magistrate Ostler remanded her for sentence in order to obtain a probation report on the girl.

This morning Miss Buskey objected to parts of the report. "It makes it sound as if I'm ready for Essondale (mental hospital). It isn't me."

The magistrate asked her: "Do you think this is normal conduct for a young woman?" She answered: "Not normal for some. But I know I don't need psychiatric help."

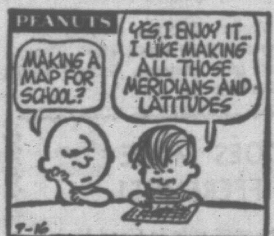

NEED GUIDANCE

Magistrate Ostler told her: "You are in need of guidance. You need straightening out. You have a seamy and depressing background for one so young."

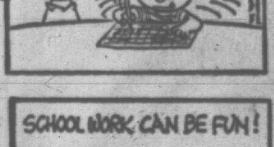

He added: "You are not nearly as tough as you pretend." It was then he imposed the 18-month term to be served at Oakalla, where, he said, there are psychiatric facilities that would help her.

The girl asked to be sent to the penitentiary instead. Magistrate Ostler said he would prefer not to send her there.

But she asked him again and told him that she wanted to learn a trade. Said Magistrate Ostler: "Alright. Two years in the penitentiary."

Went Straight 7 Years, Man Lands Back In Court

A man with a long criminal record but who has stayed out of trouble for seven years ended up back in court again this morning.

Crown prosecutor Peter Bir-kett said Crozier has a crim-

Off-Course Pelicans, Of Course!

Those big white, large billed birds with black bars on their wings? You've seen them flying in fairly tight formation in our skies the past few days?

They're Pelicans.

That was confirmed today by Charles Guiguet, Provincial Museum ornithologist, who said the birds first were reported Sunday at Sidney.

Since then they have been sighted at Saanich Inlet, Elk Lake and the Esquimalt Lagoon.

They were at the lagoon until mid-morning today.

Their appearance here is rather unusual. Mr. Guiguet says that the Pelicans more than likely have been nesting in the Cariboo and now are migrating to California or Arizona. Their usual route is inland.

They probably are having a rest here before continuing their journey, Mr. Guiguet said.

They arrived at Esquimalt Lagoon Tuesday evening as reported by Robert Mawdsley, 3325 Anchorage. And this morning they still were there, according to C. D. Reid, 3320 Ocean Boulevard.

Ladies Guild, Legion Branch Back Bishop

The Pender Island branch of the Royal Canadian Legion and the Ladies' Guild of the Church of the Good Shepherd on South Pender today protested the inclusion of a skit on the Queen in the British revue, The Establishment, to be seen here next Monday.

In a resolution the Legion said: "This branch strongly disapproves of any public utterance which could be construed as ridiculing the monarchy, or which might hurt or embarrass the Queen."

Said H. W. M. Johnson, secretary:

"It was felt that at this time especially, when the Queen is showing greater courage and devotion to duty than ever in coming to Canada, the slightest chance of giving offence should be avoided."

Mr. Johnson said the branch was in sympathy with Bishop Michael Coleman, its chaplain, who has said he will picket both performances of The Establishment at the Royal Theatre on Monday.

Mrs. Herbert Spalding, president of the Ladies' Guild of the Church of the Good Shepherd, on South Pender, said the guild stands solidly behind Bishop Coleman, who is vicar of the parish.

WILL YOU PICKET?

"I would like to join him and so would other members of our guild," Mrs. Spalding said. "I hope the people of Victoria will support him, too. Are you going to picket?"

Mrs. Spalding said the skit on the Queen's Christmas broadcast (showing her with her hair in curlers and wearing face cream) is "utterly disgraceful."

"If you came to our island and we made fun of you, you would think us pretty ill-mannered. Yet these wretches think they have the right to make fun of our brave young Queen."

"What an example to set before our young people! Is it any wonder there is no much delinquency when the theatre leads the way?"

Lonely Vigil Kept Outside Legislature

By AB KENT

Stonemason Gert Larsen, 34, of Vancouver, is a man of principle.

In a one-man campaign to attract Workmen's Compensation Board sympathy to his case, he spent a cold, sleepless night on the steps of the Legislative Buildings.

He has worked only intermittently since 1960 after undergoing spinal surgery for an injury received while working on a store project in New Westminster in 1956.

Larsen has accepted no unemployment insurance and has lived a good deal on savings, supporting a wife and three children, aged 2-8 years.

WCB has given no financial help, only ordered chiropractic treatment, he said.

OUT OF 10

"It's an unjust thing for a working man to have this on him. To know that nine out of 10 don't get full compensation. It is very unjust."

"A workman should be able to take his case before a court and the court's decision should be binding on the Workmen's Compensation Board," Larsen declared.

He came to Victoria Tuesday afternoon with the intention of seeing Attorney-General Robert Bonner, who is away until the weekend. He amended his plan to try to see Labor Minister Leslie Peterson, but Mr. Peterson also is away.

HE'LL STAY

"I would rather go about this in a rational way," he said, adding, "I will stay here until someone says something definite."

He has refused offers of accommodation while standing his vigil. A policeman Tuesday night suggested three times he could be given lodging for the night.

A member of the Buildings security staff obtained an appointment with labor department counsel Leo A. Stadnyk, for this afternoon. Mr. Stadnyk is an expert in WCB cases and has obtained decisions favorable to injured parties from the board.

"I have never had a penny from the Unemployment Insurance," Larsen said. "If I can make it myself, I will."

SCHOOL 'LOCK-OUT' CONTINUES

Four children were turned away from Cordova Bay School this morning when they went there rather than Lochside School, which they had been ordered to attend.

They were taken to Cordova Bay School by their parents in the latest move against a School District 63 ruling moving a dozen children from the crowded school, where they originally registered, to the newer building.

DANGEROUS

The parents are protesting the board's decision to send children to a school that requires them to take a longer—and the parents say dangerous—route.

Only children in the 4900 block of Cordova Bay Road are affected.

In one case, a family had the decision reversed by claiming to own property closer to the school—although they don't live on it.

And Mrs. Erwin Brechert, 4942 Cordova Bay, said this morning she and her husband have decided to build "practically in the schoolyard" so their children can attend Cordova Bay School.

Routes to the Lochside School involves walking along bush-lined Lochside Drive, which parents say is almost impassable to youngsters in winter as well as a potential molesting paradise for sex deviates.

His chief problem is to pay for the high medical and legal costs involved with his injury and treatment.

'FIX MY BACK'

"All I asked was to have them fix my back so I could get along as before," Larsen said.

The board has taken the view that Larsen's injury may have originated with a back strain while he was working for Giant Gold Mine at Yellowknife, N.W.T., in 1953.

But Larsen's doctor held that the B.C. injuries were the main contributing factor to his condition.

In 1960, Larsen hitch-hiked to Ottawa where he saw MP Harold Winch and was told workmen's compensation is strictly a provincial matter.

He said today his savings may last another month, "depending on my will power, too."

"I don't mind the empty stomach, but I do mind the cold," he said.

This morning he went downtown and bought a sweater to keep him warm during his vigil.

SATIRE ON PARADE

Frosh Week Feature Will Lampoon Buses

By JIM BIGSBY

Times Uvic Correspondent B.C. Hydro bus service will be the featured target when students at the University of Victoria begin their Frosh Week with a satire parade on Monday.

Jointly sponsored by the student newspaper The Martlet and the student magazine The Centurion, the parade will centre around a litter race between the two publications.

Litters will be carried from Lansdowne to Gordon Head campus to protest the bus fare increase and what students charge is inadequate bus service to the Gordon Head campus.

At present B.C. Hydro runs a bus to the new campus once an hour with two additional runs in the late afternoon.

Direct transportation between the two campuses is provided by a university-run shuttle bus which operates during the day while lectures are underway.

The students are complaining that this service is inadequate for students living in residence and studying in the evenings at the new library on the Gordon Head campus.

The parade is also expected to spoof other topical subjects, among them the flag, professional dullness, and North American intellectual stagnation.

This emphasis on intellectual liveliness and rebellion rather than freshmen initiations characteristic of past Frosh Weeks will be in line with a severe clamp-down on hazing.

University and student officials have warned that hazing will be punishable by suspension, expulsion or possibly legal action depending on the severity of the hazing.

New Formula Helps Reduce Fire Hazard In Home, Car

By PENNY SAVER

Saving lives is a full-time occupation for everyone, whether it's in their home, vehicle or place of work and today I'd like to bring you a new idea to help protect you and your family from fires.

Selling at 98 cents in a shop I was in is an instant ready-to-use fire extinguisher that is made from a non-toxic, harmless, approved, dry, chemical formula.

Powder is ideal for use in any type of vehicle and in the home. It can be used to extinguish incipient grease, electrical, wood and paper fires.

To use you simply remove cap, point bottle down on fire and squeeze.

Another item that helps reduce fire hazard in home or car is a rubber shock remover that is priced at 50 cents.

These are bolted to the under part of the chassis and the free end is allowed to drag along the ground. This eliminates shock due to static electricity. For home safety, it can also be attached to electric washer, stove or other electrical equipment and grounded.

A change in the weather generally means that your car battery runs down faster than normal.

Selling in this same shop at $5.95 are 12-volt transistor battery chargers. To use, you simply plug one end of the cord into the cigarette lighter and the other into an outside wall socket. It can also be used on vehicles without lighters.

In this case the charger is wired to the battery according to directions on the outside of the package.

And, if you've been looking for a chrome-plated steel fender guide, shop now has them back in stock and price is $1.90.

Help safeguard your car and home with these items. A call to Penny at 382-3131 will lead you on your way.

Wedding Vows Exchanged In St. John's Church

Canon George Biddle officiated at the ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church that united Lorna Irene Walker and Daryl Duncan McIntyre.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Victor Marochi, 660 Griffiths Street, and Mrs. Martha McIntyre, 1151 Lockley Road. Mr. Marochi gave his step-daughter in marriage.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of rustling ribbed silk fashioned with three-quarter-length sleeves and scalloped neckline edged in feathered silk ribbon appliques. The bouffant skirt was slightly en train and back fullness was controlled with tiny sweetheart bows.

Her bouffant veil of misty-nylon tulle pouffed to chapel-length from a crown of Gulpure lace. Bridal roses edged in tiny seed pearls. White Fuji chrysanthemums and yellow feathered carnations were in her bouquet.

Matron of honor, Mrs. C. W. Starck, sister of the bride and bridesmaids, Mrs. R. Irvine and Mrs. J. MacDonald, wore identical gowns of olive green peau de sole with pillbox headpieces of gathered tulle en tone. They carried cascade bouquets of white Fuji, chrysanthemums and green fern.

Best man was Stuart Walker and ushering guests to their pews were Brian McIntyre, brother of the groom, and Gary Garrington.

Lorne Pettigrew proposed the toast to his niece at reception that followed in the Elk's Hall.

For travelling, the bride donned a deep pink Italian knit suit with black velvet hat, black patent accessories and corsage of white gardenias and stephanotis.

On return from a honeymoon trip to San Francisco and Santa Barbara, the newlyweds will make their home at Langford Lake.

With budgets being stretched to the limit and back-to-school clothes taking priority, you can still set a meal that will have your family starry eyed. Try this salmon loaf with its special sauce—they'll love it!

Win Praises and Save Pennies

Frust a savory salmon loaf with the creamy elegance of a golden egg sauce, and you have a praiseworthy entree for a fall evening menu. As the flavor-some loaf, enriched with the goodness of ready-to-eat high protein cereal, bakes, make the simple sauce for a final flourish.

Round out this quick meatless meal with hashed brown potatoes, buttered broccoli, warm bread sticks and a tossed salad.

SALMON LOAF WITH EGG SAUCE

Two cups (1-pound can) salmon, 2 eggs, slightly beaten, 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon finely chopped onions, 1 tablespoon finely chopped green pepper, 1/2 teaspoon lemon juice, 3 cups ready-to-eat high protein cereal.

Remove bones and skin from salmon, drain and flake; save liquid. Add eggs to salmon and mix well. Stir in remaining ingredients; pour into well-greased 9x4 1/2 inch loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 45 minutes. Serve hot with egg sauce.

Egg Sauce:

Two tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 cup milk, 1/4 cup fish liquid, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 hard-cooked egg, chopped.

Melt butter; stir in flour and mix well. Add milk and fish liquid gradually, stirring constantly. Cook until thickened, stirring occasionally. Just before serving, add lemon juice and hard-cooked egg. Garnish with chopped parsley.

Yield: Six servings.

The gold-toned sauce is guaranteed to win you any gourmet's heart. What's more, you'll save money doing it!

DEAR ABBY . . .

The Wrong Note

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We are a young couple who have been married eight years. We recently bought a home and are now wondering if we made a good choice. Our house is in a very nice neighborhood (we thought) inhabited mostly by retired couples. The day after we moved in we found a note which said, "The neighborhood welcomes you, but we would appreciate it if the Mister would put a shirt on when he works in the yard." It was unsigned. My husband said he would dress as he pleased. We live in Florida and think it is

Many Guests Attend Tea

There were 210 guests aboard the Princess Marguerite, Tuesday afternoon, at a ladies' day tea, held by the Association of Retired Employees of Canadian Pacific Services, Vancouver Island.

Among special guests were Alderman Mrs. Lily Wilson, Mr. H. Tyson, Capt. S. C. McGilivray, captain of the Marguerite; and Mr. L. Parkinson. Also attending were Mr. Leander Brown, one of the first members of the association, and Mrs. Brown.

Dining room was decorated with arrangements of red carnations in silver vases. Entertainment was provided by the Victoria Variety Musical Entertainers.

Affair was arranged by members of the association under direction of president Gordon Hunter.

Committee members included Jack Stephenson, Ernest Campbell, Claude Chapman, Graham Simmons, Robert Kennedy, William Gropp, Stan Strnad and Wilfred Pace, vice-president.

BE SMART—

Let's face the fact that not everyone can afford fur-lined coats and suits this fall—but don't worry your pretty head about it. Emulate Claudia Phillippe (daughter of Poppy Cannon) who lined a cherry-red wool suit coat with striking fake zebra!

IT DOES MAKE A DIFFERENCE!

At school, the general rule is Good Vision — Good Grades; Poor Vision — Poor Grades. Proper glasses can make a big difference to your boy or girl. Have their eyes examined soon and bring the prescription for glasses to one of our offices. You will be glad you did.

Local Man Married In Mainland Ceremony

A wedding of interest to Victorians took place in Vancouver recently when Janice Helen Waldron became the bride of William Robert Hunter.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Waldron of Portsmouth, Eng., and Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Hunter, 1631 McRae Avenue, Victoria. The bride was given in marriage by Gavin Hume.

Rev. E. Linfoot officiated at the double-ring ceremony in St. Mark's Anglican Church, Vancouver. The church choir was in attendance.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of delustrated satin, styled on princess lines with boat neckline and lily-point sleeves. Her four-tier net veil pouffed from a circlet of white flowers. Red and cream roses were in her bouquet.

Only attendant, Mrs. Karl Bodewin, wore an ice blue sheath with net headpiece en tone and carried a bouquet of yellow carnations.

Best man was Eric Lindwall and guests were ushered to their pews by Jim Hunter, the groom's brother.

John Sutherland proposed the toast to the bride's happiness at a reception that followed in Harmony Hall.

For travelling on a honeymoon trip to California, the bride donned a sage green suit with brown tulle hat, brown snakeskin accessories and toning orchid corsage sent to her by her mother.

On return, the newlyweds will make their home in Vancouver.

Victoria guests who attended the ceremony included Mrs. A. M. Hopkins, Miss Florence Lister, Mr. and Mrs. Derek Pendi, Mr. Bert Butterworth, Miss Joan Butterworth, and Miss Catherine Fee.

Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Morrison with Melanie and Judy of Nanaimo; Mr. and Mrs. S. Hopkins of Langley; Mr. Denny Deane, Edmonton, Alta.; Mr. E. Lawton, Williams Lake, and Mrs. Lindwall, Gibsons, B.C.

Dear Eunice: I read that you don't approve of using marking wheels for marking your material because of the holes it makes. Is there any time we can use this neat gadget without ruining the material?

Mrs. F. B. It is true that marking wheels will make marks on satins, smooth silks and materials that are extremely hard to remove, especially when darts have to be changed. There is an excellent use for them however. Whenever you are completely underlining a dress, you may use the tracing wheel to mark the lining fabric. Since the two pieces of fabric would be basted together and treated as one, you will have all the marks where you can see and use them.

Dear Eunice: Most skirt patterns now call for a 9-inch zipper. Is this something new? When I learned how to sew, everyone used a 7-inch zipper.

Mrs. E. S. M. I think the 9-inch zipper is excellent for school girls who carelessly jump in and out of their clothes. The extra room will keep you from repairing many zippers because the ends will not be pulled out. This length is also good for shorts.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. T. Renfrew will mark their golden wedding anniversary this coming Friday with a family dinner in their home at 3354 Doncaster Drive. On Saturday they will be at home to their friends and relatives from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. in the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. A. Renfrew, 978 Hampshire Road. The couple was married in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sept. 18, 1914. There are three grandchildren. Mrs. Renfrew was born in Worcester, England, coming to Canada in 1907. Mr. Renfrew was born in Paisley, Scotland, and arrived in Victoria in 1894. At the age of 16, he went to work in his father's dry-cleaning establishment. Later, he and his two brothers formed their own business which is still operating. After more than 50 years in the business, Mr. Renfrew retired last year but still maintains an active interest in the business. He and his wife celebrated his retirement with a recent trip to Europe.

Honor Bride

Mrs. F. Holtum and Mrs. H. Koble were co-hostesses in the Kulshan Place home of the former recently in honor of recent bride, Mrs. Russell Morgan, nee Miss Suzanne Peters. Roses in bud vases were presented to the guest of honor; her mother, Mrs. H. Peters, and mother of the groom, Mrs. B. Morgan. Gifts were contained in a "Standard credit card" container in honor of the bride. Guests included Mrs. J. J. Hickman, Mrs. B. Hickman, Mrs. H. Hickman, Mrs. J. Hickman, Mrs. R. Goatcher, Mrs. E. Smith, Mrs. E. Collis, Mrs. P. Margetts, the Misses Gail Hickman and Karen Findler.

Visits Parents

Mrs. W. W. Craig, the former Miss Pat Paterson, and her infant son, Darron, of Edmonton, Alta., are presently visiting in the Edgeware Road home of Mrs. Craig's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon S. Paterson. They will spend two weeks in the city before returning home by train.

From Keremeos

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Rutherford travelled from Keremeos, B.C., to attend the marriage of their son, Mr. Robert Desmond Rutherford and Miss Margaret Catherine Wilson. Also from Keremeos were Mrs. Walter Magee with Diane, Maureen and

Auxiliary Helps Refurnish Room

Sum of $2,000 for the refurnishing and redecorating of the upstairs sitting room of the nurses' residence was voted when the Junior Auxiliary of the Royal Jubilee Hospital met recently.

It was decided to assist financially in the program of nursing education, by which nurses are able to attend out-of-town courses in technical training.

Members also voted to allow more flexibility in the presentation of bursaries to nursing school graduates.

Mrs. M. W. McElrea, convener of the Thrift Shop, reported receipts of $1,000. She asked that a more modern heating system be installed and members decided to purchase same through the general fund.

Mrs. F. W. Bartholomew, visiting committee chairman, reported 50 visits made to patients during the summer, accompanied by gifts of flowers and books. Elderly patients had been taken for drives. The committee had also continued to visit ex-hospital patients, now in private nursing homes.

Mrs. W. A. Trenholme reported on annual bazaar, to be held in the nurses' residence in early November.

Gerry and Mr. Rusty Konsho. Other guests included Dr. and Mrs. T. Rutherford with Kathy, Dennis, Mary, Peter and Robert of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Beattall of Chilliwack, and Miss Nancy Barratt of Trail.

Quiet Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Earl, 1223 Walnut Street, will celebrate their golden anniversary this afternoon at a quiet celebration in their home due to illness in the family. The couple was married in Victoria on September 15, 1914, and has resided here ever since. They have three children, Arnold, Victoria; Miss Jean Earl and Lorne, both of Seattle.

In-City

A number of out-of-town guests travelled to Victoria to attend the McIntyre-Walker wedding. They included Mrs. J. Belcourt, Onoway, Alta.; Mr. and Mrs. H. Fandrey of Surrey; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Fandrey and Miss V. Fandrey of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. W. Fandrey of Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. L. Pettigrew of Alberta Beach, Alta.; Mrs. H. T. Hare, Toronto; Lieut. Gary Woodward, Calgary, and Mr. John McKinney, Oak Harbour, Wash.

Announcement

Mr. and Mrs. J. Manson, 999 Hampshire Road, announce the engagement of their daughter, Gloria Marie, to Mr. Keld Norman Knudsen of Duncan. The wedding will take place on Saturday, October 10, at 2 p.m. in Oak Bay United Church.

IODE Will Hold 17th Annual Bursary Tea

R. R. Jeffels, registrar at the University of Victoria, will be guest speaker when the Municipal Chapter, IODE, holds its 17th annual bursary presentation and tea in the faculty building on the university's Gordon Head campus. The affair will be held at 4:30 p.m. on Saturday, September 26. Mrs. Elsie Lowthian, municipal regent, will present the bursaries. The chairman and general convener is Mrs. J. A. Dunn, municipal education secretary.

Tea convener is Miss Helen Battray, educational secretary, Royal Roads Chapter, IODE. Assisting her will be education secretaries of other primary chapters.

Receiving municipal chapter bursaries for $100 will be the following university students: Garry Curtis and Paul Williams, 1963 graduates of Mount View Senior Secondary School; Norma Martin and Alexander Slade, 1963 graduates of Victoria Senior Secondary School, and Marilyn Maxie, 1963 graduate of Belmont Senior Secondary School. Also receiving $100 municipal bursaries will be Stephen Sullivan, Grade XII student at Esquimalt Senior Secondary School; George Kemshaw, Grade XII student at Victoria Senior Secondary School, and John Holts, Grade XII student at Belmont Senior Secondary School. Primary chapter bursaries will be awarded as follows: Robert Burns McKicking Chapter, $100 each to Heather Church and Susan Lancaster, Grade XII students at Oak Bay Senior Secondary School; Sir James Ross McConachie, presently attending the University of British Columbia.

Hand in hand with her mother, the six-year-old daughter of the late president went to her first day of school Tuesday.

Caroline's aunt, Mrs. Peter Lawford, arrived with her daughter, Sydney, who is entering the school, too.

Caroline entered the second grade. Last year, she attended special classes at the White House.

Exquisite Bridal Gown With Accent of Lace

Inserts of satin and French lace accented the portrait neckline and skirt of the white norganza gown worn by Susanne Evaline Peters for her marriage to Russell Terry Morgan last Saturday evening. The gown was styled with a belled skirt, lily point sleeves and cathedral train. The bouffant veil of illusion net and lace, misted from a pillbox headpiece of norganza and lace, accented with seed pearls. Johanna Hill roses and stephanotis formed her bouquet. Only jewelry was a single strand of culture pearls, gift of the groom.

Pale yellow gladioli and bronze chrysanthemums decorated St. Matthias' Church for the doubling ceremony. Rev. Angus Cameron of Lundavra officiated and organist was Eric Edwards. Vic Morley sang "The Wedding Prayer."

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Peters, 1030 Clare Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Buss E. Morgan, 2263 Musgrave Street. Mr. Peters gave his daughter in marriage.

Bell-sleeved gowns of copper-toned peau de sole in cocktail length were choice of maid of honor, Miss Ruth Diamond and bridesmaid, Miss Val Green. They complemented their gowns with toning veiled pillbox headpieces and bouquets of cream and bronze chrysanthemums.

The groom's sister, Sherri Morgan was junior bridesmaid. She wore a similar gown and carried a crescent bouquet of yellow, white and bronze chrysanthemums.

Ron Morgan was best man for his twin brother and ushering guests were Terry Higgins, Wayne Peters, brother of the bride, and Norm Morgan, another brother of the groom.

Ken Findler, a friend of the bride's family, proposed the toast to her happiness at the reception which followed in the Colony Motor Hotel.

Yellow roses decorated the three-tier wedding cake which centred the head table. Yellow rosebuds and candles completed table decor.

As her going-away outfit, the bride chose an English suit of royal blue wool, black velvet beret, black patent accessories and white gardenia corsage.

After a honeymoon tour of California, the newlyweds will make their home in Victoria.

Stewardesses Will Wear Green to Fly Into the Blue

MONTREAL — Air Canada's 700 stewardesses will appear in a new winter uniform, designed by one of Canada's top couturiers, about Oct. 22.

The theme of the new charcoal green ensemble is simple elegance, which would not look out of place in a fashionable dining room.

Made of 45 per cent wool and 55 per cent terylene, treated to prevent static electricity, it has a semi-fitted jacket with set-in sleeves, a V-neckline with tailored collar and three self-covered buttons. The jacket is completely top-stitched and has a breast pocket for a white handkerchief.

The A-line skirt, which lends itself to movement, is trimmed with fake pockets in the side seams.

The white overblouse has a jewel neckline and short sleeves. The charcoal green coat is of rough basket-weave wool. The line is very pure, semi-fitted under the bust and falling gently towards the hem. It has set-in sleeves, hidden slash pockets, round tailored collar and wide concealed closing.

The little-boy hat, a sort of femininely-modish bowler in charcoal green felt with small turned-up brim, crowns the ensemble.

Paris-trained Michael Robichaud of Montreal, one of Canada's best-known couturiers, who has designed clothing for such famous personalities as Princess Grace of Monaco, Madame Pompidou and Liz Taylor.

The only jewelry is a slim, rakish Air Canada insignia on the hat, designed by Brault of Montreal, jewelry designer for such personages as the Queen Mother, and a small collar brooch at the neck.

It is the first major stewardess uniform change for Air Canada since 1953 and the sixth in the more than 27 years of the airline's existence.

A new summer uniform will be designed for next year.

The new look for Air Canada's stewardesses. At left is seen the couture suit that's easy to wear and just as easy on the eyes. Right, the cleverly styled coat is a perfect mate for the pert bowler that completes the new uniform.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Gaining Weight Is Especially Easy During Three Periods

More and more is being learned about the control of overweight as well as about nutrition in general. Recent papers and studies have turned up some interesting facts and theories. These are not all conclusive but they are worth thinking about.

There are all kinds of overweight. All of them have one factor in common, that more food is consumed than is needed for the energy expended. However, there may be additional problems in some cases.

Some overweight people who have trouble losing weight may have defects in metabolism. For instance, they may change carbohydrates into fat more rapidly than others and therefore build large deposits of fatty tissue.

It is a fact that many overweight women were overweight in childhood. Some studies have indicated that an excessive intake of carbohydrate foods increase salt and water retention.

Now don't allow the following to make you careless about nibbling, that is, about taking more nibbles than your daily calorie allowance permits. However, it has been reported that most obese people eat more of their calories in one big meal than those with normal weight.

I think the person who eats only one big meal, or most of his calories at one time, is so hungry that he overeats at the large meal. Studies with animals have shown that there is a difference in body weight when the meal is fed in nibbles rather than all at one time. A short time ago I suggested the daily calorie tray with this idea in mind.

Women are especially apt to gain weight rapidly at puberty, following the first pregnancy and at menopause. Therefore it seems important that we be alerted to watch for the first five pounds too much at these times particularly, and go after them immediately.

If you would like to have my calorie chart send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet 36 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Couple To Make Home Up-Island

Following a honeymoon trip to San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Desmond Rutherford will make their home in Port Renfrew where the groom will teach school.

Rev. R. M. Henderson officiated at the ceremony in St. Paul's United Church, Sidney, that united Margaret Catherine Wilson, daughter of Mrs. Violet G. Wilson, 11326 West Saanich Road, and the late Iain Gordon Wilson, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Rutherford, Keremeos, B.C.

Yellow and white gladioli and green fern decorated the church for the evening ceremony and pews were marked with white bells on gold bows.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, Capt. Charles R. Wilson, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white lace over satin that was highlighted with small pearls encircling the scalloped neckline. Bodice was styled with lily-point sleeves and the skirt was accented with small roses. Only jewelry was a single strand of pearls. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses with stephanotis, white heather and trailing ivy.

Matron of honor, Mrs. R. Peckett, wore a sheath-style gown of apricot gold peau de soie highlighted with a softly pleated belted overskirt. Bridesmaids, the Misses Nancy Barratt and Diana Wilson, sister of the bride, chose identical belted skirts of apricot gold peau de soie.

Miss Cathy Rutherford, niece of the groom, wore a flower girl frock of similar peau de soie.

All wore single strand pearl necklaces, gift of the bride, and carried colonial bouquets of gold chrysanthemums and tiny orchids.

Joseph Moore was best man and guests were ushered by Ken Moulson, Lyle Chambers and Bruce Wilson, brother of the bride.

At a reception in Sidney Legion Hall, the lace-covered bride's table was centred with a wedding cake made by her mother. It was flanked with yellow and white candles and tiny yellow roses. The toast was proposed by Roy Tuttle.

The bride's going-away outfit was a white Italian knit suit with white feathered hat and matching accessories. Her jewelry was a black diamond pendant, gift of the groom. Yellow roses were in her corsage.

Red Roses Mark the Pews For Evening Marriage

Arrangements of red and white blossoms decorated Douglas Street Baptist Church recently when Rev. C. Barner heard marriage vows uniting Evelyn Lucille Cooper and John Austin Elliott. Red roses marked guest pews.

Mrs. S. Ralph was organist and soloist, Rev. J. D. Watson sang "The Wedding Prayer" during the ceremony and "Because" during signing of the register.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. T. Cooper, 355 West Burnside Road, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Elliott, 1487 Stroud Street. Mr. Cooper gave his daughter in marriage.

Lace appliques at the neck and waistline highlighted the bride's floor-length gown of nylon chiffon over taffeta. Sleeves ended in lily points. Her veil misted to shoulder length from a coronet of seed pearls in floral design. She carried a shower bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Ballerina-length gowns of red peau de soie with self-fabric wedding ring headpieces, trimmed with matching veiling were choice of maid of honor, Miss Diane Cooper, Port Alberni, cousin of the bride and bridesmaids, Miss Sharon Reece, another cousin, and Miss Jose de Bourcier. They carried bouquets of white carnations.

Miss Carol Knill was flower girl in a white nylon chiffon over taffeta frock. Red carnations formed her bouquet.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — The Beatles' record producer, great chum and No. 1 fan, George Martin, thinks the three bachelors have marriage ideas dancing around in those hair-cuts.

"Not next year... more likely year after next," says Martin, a 38-year-old Londoner now a United Artists recording instrumentalist in his own right. "Why not next year? Well, they know it's going to cost them popularity, luster and glamor. Also they're too busy now to get married. And listen; Paul McCartney is not already married to Jane Asher, the actress. She's one of his girl friends but not the only girl friend."

Admitting he could be wrong, Martin says, "When I signed them for records, I thought, 'What a corny name—The Beatles!' I had half a mind to change it."

In 10 years, he says, they'll not be singing publicly together—they won't wish or need to—they'll be rich and conceivably still together—maybe doing Rodgers and Hammerstein type of stage composing.

TOO OLD AT 30

"They're the talent," he's sure. "Anyway, they'll be over 30—pretty old for a teen-age monster."

I asked Martin to help me talk Beatles, showing him a letter that read:

"Dear Oil, you're real gear because you love the Beatles—Linda Breen, Brooklyn."

"That means you're fab; or fabulous," interpreted Martin. If she hadn't liked me, she'd have said:

"Dear Phinque. You're a grotty swine."

"Grotty is short for grotesque," Martin said. "Potty, grotty, soft, and crackers are equally complimentary."

'GEAR SIR'

My fab Beatles mail includes a letter saying:

"Who listens to old man Frank Sinatra but grandparents who link him to their past of bobby socks and raccoon coats" (From Kings Port, N.Y.).

"You're lucky to have met the Beatles. I know millions of girls who'd have sold themselves into slavery to talk to them." (From Columbus, Ga.)

"I'm glad you like the Beatles. Now I know you're a real swinger. Don't print my name. My mother would have a bird." (From Madison, Wis.)

Better be nice to the Beatles, folks. In five years they'll start running the country. And in the future, just address me as "Gear Sir."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

What happened to the Cary Grant-Diane Cannon marriage rumors? ... Broadway duo: Lillian Kraemer and Canadian banker Reuben Palfi ... Joe E. Lewis greeted the banker, "Anybody who comes from the home of Canadian whisky can't be all bad."

One of the Searchers—another British rock 'n' roll group, staying at the Americana—wandered barefoot into the plush lobby; the house detective shooed him upstairs ... Greta Garbo's escort at "The Merry Widow" was fashion photographer Jerrold Schatzberg ...

Report from Europe: Now that she's begun working in a movie, ex-queen Soraya's getting the cold shoulder from other royalty in Rome ...

REMEMBERED QUOTE:

"Fifty is a dangerous age. That's when you stop chasing women—but your mind keeps on trying."—Bill Strickler.

EARL'S PEARLS: Description of a baby-sitter: A teen-ager who tells parents what time they have to be home.

That's earl, brother.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Victoria men will get a chance to enrol for the 40 technical squadron RCME fall training program tonight.

In charge of the program, starting 8 p.m. in the Bay Street Armoury, will be Major Peter Adlam.

Physically fit recruits between 18 and 45 will be accepted for mechanical, electronics and recovery training on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Special training sessions will be held for high school students to fit in with school studies.

The program runs, to Christmas.

A 15-year cyclist injured in a collision with a car Monday night was in good condition Tuesday in hospital.

John Seedhouse, 38, Camden, suffered head and back injuries in the mishap at Trans-Canada Highway and Wilkinson Road.

Sanich police identified the driver of the car involved as John Hunter, 18, of 2607 Shelbourne.

St. Alban's 50-up club will meet Thursday at 2 p.m. in the parish hall, 1468 Ryan Street.

Three travel editors from newspapers in Toronto and California will visit Vancouver Island and central B.C. from Sept. 20 to Oct. 4.

Ernest Bartlett of the Toronto Telegram, Joan McKinney of the San Francisco Chronicle and Mort Cathro of the Oakland Tribune will see the wax museum and Butchart Gardens while in Victoria.

They are guests of the B.C. section of the Pacific Northwest Travel Association.

John E. Penston, 821 Seven-oaks Road, was fined a total of $140 Tuesday for careless driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Magistrate William Ostler also ordered him to drive only for business for four months and to give the licence plates of his private car over to the police for that period.

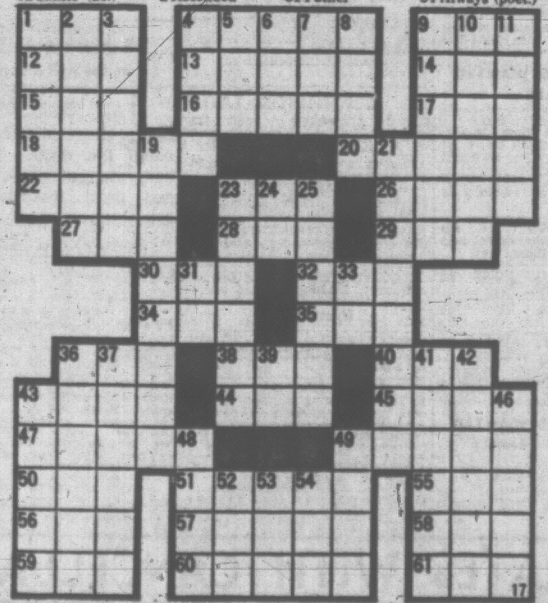

Penston hit a parked car on Pandora near Blanshard July 25 and kept on going.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each may receive a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Kitty Wellman, 10, East Lansing, Mich., for her question:

How do Geysers Go Against Gravity?

Water is a liquid, and a liquid cannot stay in place without help. It needs a floor and sides before it can come to rest. When poured on the ground, it must flow and slide downhill until it settles in the sea, a lake or in some shallow hollow, such as a puddle. In the kitchen, water slops all over the floor unless you pour it into the sink or into some container, such as a kettle.

If you put the kettle of water on a hot stove, it will boil. And the boiling water will act somewhat like the steamy fountain that spurts up from a geyser. It will disobey the rule that says that water must flow downhill. It will go against gravity which pulls it down to the solid ground and spurt up into the air. The plume of foamy steam coming out of the spout of a boiling kettle is a miniature, gravity-defying geyser.

When water changes to steam, the liquid becomes a gas. Suddenly it needs more room, more space. For gas always needs much more space than a solid or a liquid. When water boils and becomes steamy gas, it grabs itself more space in a hurry and explodes outward in every possible direction. A geyser is one of nature's kettles with a furnace and a pot of water deep in the rocks below the surface of the ground.

Water Vapor Explodes

We find the geyser in a region where volcanoes were busy in the last million years or so. The top of the seething lava has cooled, and the surface of the ground does not feel hot. But the cool crust is a seal above layers of hot rock still buried deep below ground. There are cracks and crevices in these buried hot rocks. And there are trickles of rainwater and melting snow seeping into the buried pockets.

The roots of a geyser are deep pockets and pipes. They fill up with seeping ground water and heat it to boiling point. The water may remain below until it is far above boiling point. Then the steamy mixture must explode with a

BRIDGE LESSON
By OSWALD JACOBY
South really licked his chops in glee when he heard East's two diamond bid. He almost-thundered-out a double, then asked himself, "Where are the spades?" North surely didn't have five spades and probably didn't have four, so East and West would have an escape to the spade suit.

So South resisted the temptation to double and jumped to four hearts. He won East's king of diamonds with his ace. South proceeded to use the code word ARCH. The "A" analysis of the lead and "R" review of the bidding marked West with a singleton diamond. The "C" out of losers showed two spades and three diamonds. If he could discard something on the ace of clubs and also manage to ruff a diamond, he would have 10 tricks. "How could he do this? He could lead the eight of trumps to dummy's nine and discard on the ace of clubs. This would leave no opportunity to ruff a diamond, and South abandoned that idea.

Record Due
 In Lumber
 Shipments

Lumber shipments out of Victoria took a sharp drop in August but shipping officials are confident of a record year. Wheat shipments, on the other hand, were more than double August 1963 and Ogden Point elevators are up nearly two million bushels on the previous year. George Dawson of King Bros. shipping agents says the drop in lumber exports is only temporary. "Lumber yards in the U.S. take inventory every once in a while and I think that is why charts are rather low," he said.

SURGE AGAIN

"This happens periodically, but shipments are going to resume again." The August decline of more than 17 million board feet of lumber over the same month in 1963 has left lumber exports more than one million board feet behind last year. Shipments in board feet from January to the end of August total 167,134,256 as compared to 168,144,667 last year. Wheat shipments for the month ended August 31 totalled 8,468,344 bushels, up from the previous year's figure of 6,468,196 for the same period. And they show no sign of slowing down. Earlier this week three ships called at the Ogden Point elevator. Today, the Bonneville loaded 500 tons for the Philippines and the Master George docked at noon to pick up 11,000 tons for China.

Non-Racist
 Charged With Murder

PRETORIA (Reuters)—Fredrick John Harris, 27-year-old white teacher and former chairman of the South African non-racial Olympic committee, has been charged here with murder, causing a bomb explosion at Johannesburg railroad station July 24, and with sabotage. The murder charge was said to be related to "the murder of an elderly lady." Mrs. Ethel Rhys, 77, died in a hospital last month from injuries suffered when a time-bomb in a suitcase exploded in Johannesburg railroad station during the evening rush hour July 24. More than 20 persons, including Mrs. Rhys' 12-year-old granddaughter were injured by the explosion, six of them seriously. Harris, a campaigner for South Africa's exclusion from the Olympic Games at International Olympic Committee meetings, was arrested by police security officers on the night of the station explosion.

Two Federal Farm Credit
 Bills Approved

OTTAWA (CP)—Two government proposals to aid farmers met no opposition Tuesday in the Commons. But there was criticism that not enough was being done to offset the rising costs of farming. Unanimous approval was given to a bill that will allow farmers to borrow up to a maximum of $15,000 for capital improvements to their property under the Farm Improvement Act. The previous limit was $7,500. Also approved was a government resolution to set up a $25,000,000 fund that will finance government loans to groups of farmers to purchase farm machinery. The loans would cover up to 80 per cent of the machinery costs.

Beatles a Plot
 To Ruin World?

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Pavreau told the Commons Tuesday there has not been sufficient evidence gathered yet to launch a test case against persons sending out hate literature. The attorney-general of Ontario had agreed to taking such a test case to the court providing the RCMP was able to turn up enough evidence on which to base a charge. So far, there has not been enough such evidence. Reid Scott (NDP—Toronto, Danforth) raised the question in connection with reports of a new wave of anti-Semitic literature in Toronto and Hamilton. He said even the Beatles were being described as a Jewish plot to corrupt the world.

More Police Asked
 For Port Alberni

PORT ALBERNI—City Council has asked the provincial government for an increase of two RCMP constables here to bolster the present force from 10 on municipal duties and two on district work. The addition is expected to become effective Jan. 1, 1965.

INFORMATION FOR NEWCOMERS registering at the University of Victoria this week is being distributed by the newest of newcomers, Takeyoshi Shiozawa and Hiroto Tasaka from Japan. "Tacky" and "Hero", here on Uvic's student-organized foreign exchange plan, have no worries about meeting their fellow students. By noon today over 850 first-year Arts and Science students had passed their information stand at the Gordon Head gymnasium. (Times photo.)

Alert Bay Supports
 Mungo Plaque Fund

Indian chiefs and merchants in the Alert Bay area have expressed their enthusiasm for a Mungo Martin Memorial by setting up collection boxes to aid the fund. Mrs. Helen Hunt, who recently visited Alert Bay, said everywhere she went the idea of the fund was well received. Merchants suggested that collection boxes be left there until the end of the fishing season so returns from the boxes will not be known until mid-October. Mrs. Hunt is the adopted granddaughter of the late chief. VICTORIA HOME Mrs. Hunt and her husband, Henry, had dreamed of returning to Alert Bay for 11 years. Last month they made the trip with eight of their children, but it was not long before they realized that Victoria is now home. Henry, who learned the art of carving totem poles from Mungo, often thought of giving up carving to return to his native home. Now he has no desire ever to leave his post at Thunderbird Park here. Mungo Martin brought fame to Victoria at the same time as he made the Indian people proud of their heritage. Now both the Indians and native Victorians have an opportunity to pay tribute to the chief. Donations for the fund are deductible from income tax and are being accepted by the Times and Colonist. They may be sent to the Mungo Martin Memorial Fund, care of either paper.

Indian Socialists Claim 1,500 Arrested

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Indian Socialists, who have launched a 12-day protest against food shortages, claim that police arrested more than 1,500 of their demonstrators in Uttar Pradesh state. The Samyukta party, a right-wing Socialist group, announced Tuesday that high-ranking members of their organization and eight members in the state legislature were caught in the police dragnet.

With Norman Cribbens

THE LONELINESS OF THE LONG DISTANCE RUNNER

Problem Drama Fox Theatre

To me this is a study in grey—a stark, knife-edged commentary on the British Borsal system, which repels, attracts, fascinates and infuriates.

It upset me because this angry missile of a film falters at the very peak of its trajectory and falls back to earth like a burnt stick.

Why in heaven put up a great idea and then knock it down in a spirit of cynical defeatism?

The idea, briefly, is that a Borsal boy (under sentence for theft) may gain self-respect by racing against the son of a high-born gentleman from one of England's most recognized public schools.

The Borsal governor, very ably portrayed by Michael Redgrave, tries to "jolly" the simmering rebel (Tom Courtenay) into challenging the gentleman's son.

Flashbacks tell the boy's story—sometimes revealingly, sometimes jarringly—and the climax is a cross-country race which the governor knows the boy can win.

Instead, he seizes the opportunity of showing the governor and the assembled spectators his contempt for all they stand for by deliberately abandoning the race!

This, I suggest, is a wholly unnatural and unlikely performance by a boy who has every reason to believe he is a born runner.

Tony Richardson may be a brilliant director (he gave us Tom Jones) but here, it seems, he is so timidly uncertain of whether he has made his points or not that even his race scenes are undercut by montages which rob them of their proper excitement.

The background music, too, is irritating: I was annoyed by John Addison's repeatedly ironic performance of "Jerusalem." Twice would have been fine, but to keep on sneering at this lovely anthem with squawking muted trumpets is too much.

Otherwise... this is a film to see and discuss and anything which stirs us into argument in these days of blatant mass-opinion is good.

Former Matron Well-Known Here Dies In Ottawa

A former matron at Government House in Ottawa and one-time resident of Victoria, Mrs. Mabel E. Jones, died Sunday in Ottawa Civic Hospital.

Born in North England in 1880, Mrs. Jones came to Canada in 1907 to join the staff of Government House. Her command of French and English, and her charity, made her a popular matron in the city where she was a pioneer in the field of ecumenism and bilingualism.

Mrs. Jones was predeceased by her husband who died following an automobile accident in Victoria last November.

She is survived by two sons and two daughters, George E. P. Jones, Victoria; Sidney C. Jones, Oliver; Dorothy G. Jones, Ottawa, and Lilian L. Jones, England; six grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

MOBY DOLL BECOMES MEER

VANCOUVER (CP) — Moby Doll, a member of a fierce species of whale, is meekly eating from the hand of her keeper.

The only captive killer whale in North America for some time frightened her keepers by refusing to eat.

Now she eats about 100 pounds of grey cod at a meal.

Vince Penfold, assistant curator of the Vancouver Aquarium, Monday held out 23 fish at a time. The whale swam by, opened her mouth and Penfold dropped in the fish.

Commons Flag Committee Members Reflect All Views

By TOM MITCHELL

OTTAWA (CP)—The members were finally picked Tuesday for the committee that will study designs for a national flag for a maximum six weeks and report back to the Commons.

The roster shows seven Liberals, five Conservatives and one member each from the New Democratic, Social Credit and Creditist parties.

Members are:
Liberals—Herman M. Batten, Humber-St. George, Nfld.; Jean-Eudes Dube, Restigouche-Mada-waska, N.B.; Leo Cadieux, Terrebonne, Que.; Joe Macaluso, Hamilton West, and John R. Matheson, Leeds, Ont.; Mrs. Margaret Konantz, Winnipeg South, Man.; and G. M. Deachman, Vancouver Quadra, B.C.

Conservatives—Hugh John Flemming, Victoria - Carleton, N.B.; Theogene Ricard, St. Hyacinthe-Bagot, Que.; J. Waldo Monteith, Perth, Ont.; Reynold Rapp, Humboldt - Melfort-Tisdale, Sask.; and David Pugh, Okanagan Boundary, B.C.

Smaller parties—Reid Scott (NDP—Toronto Danforth) and Quebecers Marcel Lessard (SC—Lac St. Jean) and Raymond Langlois (Creditist—Mégantic).

MAY MEET THURSDAY

It was thought the committee might hold its first meeting Thursday, one week from the day when the Commons moved to get the contentious issue off the House floor and into the committee room. Committee sessions are to be closed.

Some statistics are available on the committee members from the 22-day Commons debate on the government's proposal for a flag with three red maple leaves on a white background with a vertical blue bar at each edge.

'Recognize China

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The United Church general council Tuesday night unanimously approved a recommendation that it reaffirm its stand that Canada should give de facto recognition to the government of mainland China.

Mrs. Konantz and MPs Batten and Macaluso, MPs Dube, Cadieux, Deachman and Matheson, a student of heraldry who played a big hand in the proposed tri-leaf design, all backed the government's proposal.

All the Conservative nominees spoke during the debate. But MPs Monteith, Flemming, Rapp and Pugh aimed much of their fire against possible disappearance of the Red Ensign as a Canadian symbol. The government's tri-leaf proposal was linked with one that would adopt the Union Jack as the flag to denote Canada's Commonwealth connection. Mr. Ricard favored some distinctive flag for Canada.

Mr. Scott did not speak but, by draping a huge example over his office door, has made known his preference for a flag similar to the government's proposal but bearing a single red maple leaf.

Mr. Langlois also favors a single-leaf design. Mr. Lessard says he favors the government's design or any other distinctive Canadian flag that would command wide support.

'PROUD DAY FOR B.C.'

DOUGLAS, B.C. (CP) — Premier Bennett pledged today to develop the Columbia River "just as swiftly and diligently" as the province now is developing the power potential of the Peace River in northeastern British Columbia.

Speaking at a ceremony commemorating formal ratification of the Columbia River Treaty between Canada and the United States, the premier said the occasion was one of the proudest in B.C. history.

Most of his brief remarks from a platform at the Peace Arch across the international border between this Canadian port of entry and Blaine, Wash., dealt with close relations between the U.S. and Canada.

He extended a welcome to British Columbia to President Johnson, who with Prime Minister Pearson, is here to commemorate the Columbia Treaty that requires the construction of three dams on the Columbia River in B.C.

Text of his speech was released to the press in advance of delivery.

Welcoming President Johnson to B.C., he said it was "particularly fitting that we should gather here on the occasion of another presidential visit at a setting which symbolizes all that was statesmanlike about Franklin Roosevelt" — the last previous U.S. president to visit the province.

"The remarkable and enduring relationship between two nations which this peace arch celebrates is by now so familiar to the people of our two countries that it may be taken for granted."

"But perhaps it would be well for us to proclaim more often to all the world the trust, the understanding and the affection which Canadians and Americans have shared as a matter of course for over 150 years."

"Because if good example is the spark of imitation, then we may light the way, by our example, to a new frontier of co-operation among the nations of a troubled world."

The Columbia Treaty was "another demonstration of our mutual confidence."

The only political note in the speech was a brief reference to the prepayment formula in the treaty under which B.C. today received $273,000,000 from the U.S. for power benefits to be derived from the treaty.

The premier said "we would perhaps be less than human if we did not take real satisfaction in the knowledge that the financing formula put forward by the British Columbia government was accepted by both national governments as a means of implementing the treaty's terms."

"It is rewarding to see these benefits enjoyed by a single province or state; it is infinitely more rewarding to see them extended to millions of people in both our countries."

"We are already developing the mighty resource of the Peace River and I can assure you, Mr. President and Mr. Prime Minister, that we will proceed just as swiftly and diligently to develop the Columbia River in keeping with the terms of the international treaty."

AFTER THREAT

'Blood Bomber' Under Close Eye

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Police were keeping a close eye on "blood bomber" David Cowlishaw today in case he tries to carry out a threat to interfere with Columbia River Treaty ceremonies involving President Lyndon Johnson and Prime Minister Lester Pearson.

A spokesman for the RCMP said security officials were "aware" of Cowlishaw's threat to take some unspecified action during the ceremony, but denied they had increased security precautions because of it.

The spokesman specifically shot down a London report that 50 carloads of Mounties had been rushed to the city. He said security arrangements were "the normal ones for a visit by a prime minister and a president."

Cowlishaw, a 28-year-old British-born journalist who heads an organization called "Underdog," threatened Monday to interfere with today's Johnson-Pearson ceremonies in a further attempt to publicize the case of Calvin Macdonald. Three weeks ago, Cowlishaw threw a carton of beef blood onto the floor of the Commons in Ottawa to draw attention to Macdonald's grievance.

'Bit of Olde England' Even in Washington

Even the U.S. State Department feels that Victoria is a "little bit of olde England."

A wire from Washington, D.C., regretfully declining an invitation to U.S. President Lyndon Johnson to visit Victoria today was signed by William R. Tyler, assistant secretary of state for European affairs at the State Department. The invitation was sent last week by Acting Mayor M. H. Mooney.

The reply read: "With reference your telegram to the president, I regret that his schedule will not permit him time to accept your cordial invitation to visit the city of Victoria when he is in British Columbia on Wednesday."

"His stay in the province must of necessity be brief but I know he would appreciate an opportunity to enjoy the hospitality of the city if it were possible."

Ald. Mooney said he realized when he extended the invita-

VANCOUVER—LBJ and LBP and WACB equalled political history here today.

These famous initials also added up to the tightest security network ever drawn around the lower mainland—multiplied by thousands of members of the public.

U.S. President Lyndon B. Johnson and Prime Minister L. B. Pearson were met at Sea Island RCAF base here at 1 p.m. by the broad smile of Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Never before has such an array of political fame gathered on B.C. soil.

Never before were so many mounties, secret service and troops on guard to ensure the safety of the summit trio.

And for the first time Vancouver and Moscow were linked by the president's "hot line" telephone to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev—rigged up at the airport.

Despite rain all Tuesday and this morning the guards were prepared for one of the biggest crowds in B.C. history.

RCMP said they were geared to handle anywhere from 5,000 to 100,000 people.

And despite the short notice, police and army quickly drew up a master plan to thwart any possible disaster.

For this was the first time the U.S. president had set foot outside his country since the infancy of Nov. 22, 1963—the day of the assassination of President Kennedy.

Photographers who wanted to shoot pictures from hangar tops at the airport were told that nobody was allowed to go on a roof.

Type of Car Kept a Tight Secret

Officials refused to disclose what type of car would carry the president and prime minister from the airport to the border.

(It was an open convertible that carried John Kennedy to his death in Dallas.)

Timing was precise. The president was to spend only three hours from the time he landed until he took off for Seattle aboard USAF 1—a 707 jet—at about 4 p.m.

A 21-gun salute greeted the two national leaders as they stepped from a department of transport Jetstar onto a red carpet at Sea Island.

There to shake their hands was Mr. Bennett, flanked by two cabinet ministers.

A 100-man honor guard from Work Point barracks presented arms.

WIRE BRIEFS

11 Cubans Defect

GANDER, Nfld. (UPI) — Eleven more Cubans defected Tuesday from a Cubana airliner at Gander airport. Immigration officials said the eleven—men, women and several children—left the airliner while it was refuelling en route to Prague.

Peace Talks Near?

PARIS (UPI)—Hopes for a Laotian peace conference soared today on reports that the communists have offered to neutralize the strategic Plaines Des Jarres.

6 Persons Drown

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — Six farm workers were drowned today and 10 scrambled to safety when a collision on a rain-swept road knocked their truck into a canal. Survivors said the vehicle had been carrying 16 persons.

Big Plane Order

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Australia is to buy seven new Caribou transport aircraft in Canada at a cost of $2,900,000 Australian ($3,018,000), Defence Minister Shane Paltridge announced today.

No Sabotage

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Pickersell said today department investigators uncovered no evidence of sabotage in their investigation of the crash of an Air Canada DC-8 last year near Montreal with the loss of 118 lives.

LEADERS GET VIEW

Weather Clears Over Columbia

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (CP-AP) — Prime Minister Pearson and President Johnson met here today before flying west over the Columbia River basin, soon to be the scene of a vast power development.

Their plane, a Canadian government transport, took them to Vancouver.

It was believed the first time a U.S. president has flown in an aircraft of another government leader. The Jetstar took off at 11:17 a.m., PDT, which was 17 minutes behind the leaders' tight schedule.

The weather office said clear weather moved up from Washington which would give the leaders a clear view of at least the southern portions of the river basin where three dams are to be built in B.C. under the treaty.

"We are about to travel over one of the richest and most majestic territories in the world," Johnson said in a prepared speech prior to the flight. "It will be made more abundant by this day's work."

Lauding U.S.-Canadian co-operation, he said:

"Twenty-one years ago President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Mackenzie King met in Hyde Park. They agreed to work together to defend this hemisphere and democracy everywhere."

"From that day to this we have followed the same path of partnership. Free peoples everywhere are more secure because of our partnership in NATO, in NORAD, and in the United Nations."

"It is a symbol of our time that beneath the magnificence of Montana stand weapons powerful enough to devastate much of a continent."

The president apparently was referring to the state's great complex of underground silos housing intercontinental missiles.

He predicted that the Columbia River development project would provide jobs, power and recreational facilities.

In remarks prepared for delivery at Vancouver, the president said the Columbia River Treaty "will lay a new foundation for prosperity for Canadians and Americans."

He noted that the partnership was achieved "because we respect our differences."

Price Fixing Charge Laid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal charges of conspiracy to fix prices were disclosed today against 11 felt manufacturers in the U.S., including a company of which Republican vice-presidential candidate, William E. Miller is a director.

The Federal Trade Commission announced issuance of an order to prohibit the companies and their trade association, the Papermakers Felt Association of Philadelphia, from conspiring to fix prices. Agreement to the order by the companies and the association did not constitute an admission that they had violated the law.

Miller is a director of Lockport Felt Company Inc., Newfane, N.Y.

YACHT RACE CALLED OFF —NO WIND

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Today's second yacht race in the best-of-seven series to determine the holder of the America's Cup was postponed 24 hours because of the lack of wind.

Both the Constellation, the United States' defender, and Sovereign, the British challenger, had stood at the starting line for more than an hour waiting for the wind to freshen when the race was put off.

Both contestants said they would be ready to race Thursday, wind permitting.

B.C. Bank Hearing Postponed

OTTAWA (CP)—The Senate banking committee today postponed for two weeks further action on an application to incorporate the Bank of British Columbia, in which the B.C. government would hold a minority interest.

Senator Salter Hayden (L.-Ontario), committee chairman, read a letter from lawyers for the bank requesting the postponement to permit B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner to make arrangements to appear before the committee with further evidence.

The bank application was before the committee earlier during which Premier Bennett and several B.C. cabinet ministers replied to questions about the provincial government's interest in the bank.

B.C. AND ALASKA

'Go-it-alone' Power Project?

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—British Columbia and Alaska may move alone toward a joint industrial and power scheme to avoid delays usual to international agreements, top officials said here Tuesday.

In a report to the Alaska-British Columbia-Yukon conference, Lands and Forest Minister Ray Williston of B.C. said forest and water reserves have been established on the remote Iskut Valley of the Alaska Panhandle. A private company has proposed a dam that could supply power for two major mineral developments. Both would involve international agreements.

However, state and provincial officials proposed that responsibility for the international aspects of the scheme be taken out of the hands of the U.S. and Canadian Federal governments.

Mr. Williston and Governor William Egan of Alaska said development could be tied up for 10 years if referred to the International Joint Commission.

They agreed that in regional matters, the province and state should settle their own problems and not follow the formula set out by the international boundary waters treaty of 1909.

STUDY PLANS

Mr. Williston said plans are being studied for the first of four potential dams on the Iskut River, part of the Stikine River system near the Alaska-B.C. border.

He said the four dams could produce 579,000 kilowatts of power at a cost of between two and three mills per kilowatt hour at site.

The power could supply the needs of the Alaskan communities of Wrangell and Petersburg, the Granduc Copper Mine near Stewart, B.C., scheduled for production in 1965—and the Kennecott copper find on the Stikine which has tens of millions of tons of ore.

The minister suggested an 80-mile railroad linking Wrangell pulp and lumber operation proposed for the Stikine and Iskut valleys.

Art Thieves Hunted

ROME (AP) — Search was pressed today for an international ring of thieves blamed for stealing 15 paintings by some of Italy's greatest Renaissance artists from an Italian collector.

The value of the paintings stolen Monday night from Prince Alessandro Torlonia was estimated at first at $360,000. Art experts said later they might be worth more than $1,000,000.

Arthur Mayse

The fact that we like it where we are doesn't keep us from dropping in at realtors' open houses, and the other evening we made two of the crowd tramping through an attractive, super-modern pocket villa in the lee of the hill our kids used to call Mount Tommy.

In a fit of the amiable whimsy that enlivens the real estate business, the sponsors of this dream-house had planned and tastefully furnished it for a hypothetical family.

The name was Downey. There was Jim, who relaxes from sweating out the mortgage in a basement play-room behind an Irish-motif bar complete with toasts in Erse.

Jim's wife didn't seem to rate a name, or maybe we missed it. In any case, we assumed her to be busy somewhere around the place... vacuuming, dusting, or happily flipping switches in her all-electric kitchen.

On we prowled, looking but not touching, and comfortable in the illusion of a family-in-occupancy.

Then we came to the children's rooms, and our picture of the Downeys sang in their suburban castle shattered to smithereens.

They had been allotted two kids, youngsters whom we automatically presumed to be healthy, active, normal Canadian children.

Maureen was of an age to squeal over The Beatles, Gordon somewhat older.

We commenced with Maureen's room, nicely furnished and decorated by loving parents, strategically placed to command a bathroom, a perfect haven for a junior miss. Sure, Maureen was a Beatles-squealer. The evidence was indisputable. From a wall plaque above her pillow, Ringo and his unshorn mates guarded her slumbers. A Beetle T-shirt was draped across the bed, and Beetle records lay neatly terraced on the rug.

But imagination had nosedived here. The room, though sumptuous, was the merest shell, its tenant only a name thumbtacked over a doorway. Where was the mess, the confusion, the evidence of hasty exits, the frantic clutter that sets mothers moaning?

Where the chewed apple core, brown and withering? Where the sandwich crust, the glass with milk dried in its bottom, the matelassé socks, the crumpled jeans, the shirts overdue for a trip to the automatic washer-dryer in Mom Downey's sunny laundry nook?

Disarrayed, we turned away. Still, girls are unpredictable; Maureen might have been seized by a temporary passion for neatness. In Gordon's lair, all would be different.

And was it?

As a pathetic simulation of red-blooded maleness, a pair of boxing gloves dangled in view. A salmon rod, rigged with a shiny flasher, leaned carefully against a wall.

But no junk! No projects started and abandoned. No radio innards, or tropical fish-odd hatching maggots in a loose-lidded jar, or mysterious wires running under a window-sill propped on a rusty belt-knife.

You knew with bleak certainty that a father in grumbling search of pirated flashlight batteries would never trip over a hubcap or a tennis racquet on that floor. Tug on any cupboard door and no higgledy-piggledy of tattered sport-car magazines would swamp you. This wasn't boy-country. The climate was all wrong.

"Where's the cat?" I asked Ron.

"Oh," he said vaguely, "asleep on my bed. I guess."

"Sue," Win called from down the hall, "those wire things in your closet are coat hangers. People hang clothes on them."

But she sounded more pleased than otherwise; and we knew why those unfortunate Downeys spent so much time in their Irish bar.

Their house wasn't a home. Their young weren't natural. What they had instead of human children, heaven help them, was a pair of monsters!

IT DARES TO BE KNOWN BY AGE ALONE

If you like vintage tea, Provincial Museum officials may oblige by pouring a brew made from tea at least 100 years old.

But they won't be responsible if there's any after-effect. The museum recently acquired the tea from Mr. and Mrs. George Williamson, 995 Jasmine, who found it among a box of antiques bought at an auction.

The tea is compressed into two cakes. One is shaped like a title and is decorated with a pagoda design. On top are some words written in Russian which have yet to be translated.

YACHT RACE CALLED OFF —NO WIND

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Today's second yacht race in the best-of-seven series to determine the holder of the America's Cup was postponed 24 hours because of the lack of wind.

Both the Constellation, the United States' defender, and Sovereign, the British challenger, had stood at the starting line for more than an hour waiting for the wind to freshen when the race was put off.

Both contestants said they would be ready to race Thursday, wind permitting.

NEAR BUTE INLET

Logging Camp Swept Into Sea

Three men are missing after a mud slide smashed a logging camp northeast of Campbell River just after noon today.

Doctors in Campbell River General Hospital are trying to save the life of a man buried in the slide and flown in after rescuers found him caked in mud.

He was one of about 30 persons living at Bute Inlet, on the mainland opposite Campbell River, in a camp owned by Cattermole Timber Co.

NINE STRANDED

Nine men are believed stranded on top of a mountain.

"The camp is completely smashed. Everything is flattened or knocked into the bay," pilot Capt. Stuart Spurr told the Times in a telephone interview.

"Nine men are stuck up on the mountain because the slide took out two bridges.

"I understand there are two helicopters standing by to get them out if they can land," said Capt. Spurr, senior pilot for B.C. Airlines which has been flying supplies into the camp.

the scene after a sister camp radioed for help.

Campbell River RCMP have sent a boat across to the camp, and three B.C. Airlines planes were standing by in case any of the three men are found.

"About eight or ten men are still digging around in the debris trying to find the three men who are missing," said Capt. Spurr.

When he arrived with a stretcher, the man buried in mud was lying on a mattress.

"He was completely caked in mud.

"Mud was rammed into his nose and ears. He didn't seem to have any broken bones, but he was cut quite badly," said Capt. Spurr.

Capt. Spurr told the Times that men there told him a wall of mud "50 feet thick with massive logs in it" washed through the camp.

He said there were normally about 30 men in the camp, but it wasn't up to full strength today.

"We got the call just after

'PROUD DAY FOR B.C.'

DOUGLAS, B.C. (CP) — Premier Bennett pledged today to develop the Columbia River "just as swiftly and diligently" as the province now is developing the power potential of the Peace River in northeastern British Columbia.

Speaking at a ceremony commemorating formal ratification of the Columbia River Treaty between Canada and the United States, the premier said the occasion was one of the proudest in B.C. history.

Most of his brief remarks from a platform at the Peace Arch across the international border between this Canadian port of entry and Blaine, Wash., dealt with close relations between the U.S. and Canada.

He extended a welcome to British Columbia to President Johnson, who with Prime Minister Pearson, is here to commemorate the Columbia Treaty that requires the construction of three dams on the Columbia River in B.C.

Welcoming President Johnson to B.C., he said it was "particularly fitting that we should gather here on the occasion of another presidential visit at a setting which symbolizes all that was statesmanlike about Franklin Roosevelt" — the last previous U.S. president to visit the province.

WIFE REVEALS

'Blood Bomber' Held by RCMP

VANCOUVER (CP) — The wife of blood bomber David Cowlishaw said Wednesday that her husband was picked up by RCMP hours before the scheduled arrival here of President Johnson and Prime Minister Pearson.

VANCOUVER (UPD)—Police were keeping a close eye on "blood bomber" David Cowlishaw today in case he tries to carry out a threat to interfere with Columbia River Treaty ceremonies involving President Lyndon Johnson and Prime Minister Lester Pearson.

A spokesman for the RCMP said security officials were "aware" of Cowlishaw's threat to take some unspecified action during the ceremony, but denied they had increased security precautions because of it.

Cowlishaw, a 28-year-old British-born journalist who heads an organization called "Underdog," threatened Monday to interfere with today's Johnson-Pearson ceremonies in a further attempt to publicize the case of Calvin MacDonald. Three weeks ago, Cowlishaw threw a carton of beef blood onto the floor of the Commons in Ottawa to draw attention to MacDonald's grievance.

Macdonald, who Sunday applied for "political asylum" in the United States, claims he was an undercover agent for

White Sox, Yanks Gain

NEW YORK — New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox each gained on league-leading Baltimore Orioles in the torrid American League baseball race today.

The White Sox moved to within half a game of first place by defeating Detroit, 4-1. The Yanks trounced Los Angeles 9-4, to move within one game of the Orioles who play Minnesota tonight.

Roger Maris hit his 22nd home run of the season to pace the Yankee attack.

Threat Made

SEATTLE (AP) — A 62-year-old Seattle Goldwater supporter was arrested by secret service agents and police at his home Tuesday night on a charge of threatening the life of President Johnson.

At an appearance before a U.S. commissioner today Leonard E. Agnew, an Alaska Steamship Co. shipwright, was accused of having told two fellow workers Monday:

"I want to take Wednesday off. President Johnson is coming to town, and I am going to kill him."

Mrs. Agnew, 69, told reporters her husband was just popping off.

Their plane, a Canadian government transport, took them to Vancouver.

Bennett Greeted Pearson, Johnson

By FRANK RUTTER

Times Legislative Reporter

VANCOUVER—LBJ and LBP and WACB equalled political history here today.

These famous initials also added up to the tightest security network ever drawn around the lower mainland—multiplied by thousands of members of the public.

U.S. President Lyndon B. Johnson and Prime Minister L. B. Pearson were met at Sea Island RCAF base here at 1 p.m. by the broad smile of Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Never before has such an array of political fame gathered on B.C. soil.

Never before were so many mounties, secret service and troops on guard to ensure the safety of the summit trio.

And for the first time Vancouver and Moscow were linked by the president's "hot line" telephone to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev—rigged up at the airport.

Despite rain all Tuesday and this morning the guards were prepared for one of the biggest crowds in B.C. history.

RCMP said they were geared to handle anywhere from 5,000 to 100,000 people.

Actually there were about 1,000 at the airport, held back by traffic control.

Both the prime minister and the president made brief speeches at the airport before leaving by car for the ceremonies at the Peace Arch on the international border.

President Johnson drew a roar of laughter from the crowd when he addressed them as "my fellow westerners." After introducing a number of senators and state governors who were in his party, the president said he had made enquiries about British Columbia and "would eat the salmon and praise the B.C. Lions."

Photographers who wanted to shoot pictures from hangar tops at the airport were told that nobody was allowed to go on a roof.

Type of Car Kept a Tight Secret

Officials refused to disclose what type of car would carry the president and prime minister from the airport to the border.

(It was an open convertible that carried John Kennedy to his death in Dallas.)

Timing was precise.

The president was to spend only three hours from the time he landed until he took off for Seattle aboard USAF 1—a 707 jet—at about 4 p.m.

A 21-gun salute greeted the two national leaders as they stepped from a department of transport Jetstar onto a red carpet at Sea Island.

There to shake their hands was Mr. Bennett, flanked by two cabinet ministers.

A 100-man honor guard from Work Point barracks presented arms.

The band of the Royal Canadian Engineers from Chilliwack tried to drown the scream of jet engines with a presidential serenade.

The ceremony at the airport took less than half an hour.

RCMP closed off the 26-mile route along the Deas thruway to the U.S. border, sending traffic down the old Pacific Highway.

The official party sped at 60 mph from the airport to the Peace Arch at Blaine, followed by 10 buses carrying newsmen from across Canada and the U.S. and invited guests.

No cars were allowed in the motorcade, surrounded by police and U.S. secret service men.

At the Peace Arch four political leaders hailed the Columbia

As the president spoke, rain began to fall heavily and he said:

"I won't say Vancouver reminds me of Texas, but when I go home I'll say Texas reminds me of Vancouver."

Mr. Pearson lauded the first visit of President Johnson outside the U.S. to Canada—"Your most candid and most constructive critic."

"It is usual that the first visit is to the capital of a country," the prime minister said. "But you are a Texan and not bound by conventions such as these."

"In no part of Canada could your welcome be more sincere."

And despite the short notice, police and army quickly drew up a master plan to thwart any possible disaster.

For this was the first time the U.S. president had set foot outside his country since the infancy of Nov. 22, 1963—the day of the assassination of President Kennedy.

B.C. Bank Hearing Postponed

OTTAWA (CP)—The Senate banking committee today postponed for two weeks further action on an application to incorporate the Bank of British Columbia, in which the B.C. government would hold a minority interest.

Senator Salter Hayden (L—Ontario), committee chairman, read a letter from lawyers for the bank requesting the postponement to permit B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner to make arrangements to appear before the committee with further evidence.

The bank application was before the committee earlier during which Premier Bennett and several B.C. cabinet ministers replied to questions about the provincial government's interest in the bank.

U.S. EXPERTS PONDER

Bomb, Death Ray
New K Weapon?

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The "new means of destruction" claimed by Soviet Premier Khrushchev could be a major advance in chemical or germ warfare, U.S. government experts said today.

Defence sources stressed they were speculating in the absence of any hard intelligence information about what Khrushchev meant in a talk to a Japanese group in the Kremlin Tuesday.

Developments considered in the realm of the possible included:

—The cobalt bomb, a nuclear device using a shell of cobalt instead of steel. Explosion of such a bomb would unleash huge amounts of lethal, and long-lived radioactive fallout.

—A death ray, possibly a highly concentrated, intense beam of light.

—The neutron bomb, another kind of death ray weapon whose emissions would destroy all life in a target area but would do virtually no damage to structures.

Defence experts were not disposed to dispute the existence of a significant new Soviet weapon. They noted that Soviet boasting of this sort generally has had some basis, although often inflated for propaganda effect.

At the same time they were not dismissing the possibility that this might be a play by Khrushchev to frighten his Chinese opponents—and that the Russian leader might have taken liberties with the truth.

His use of the term "new means of destruction" prompted some experts to suggest that the reported weapon did not involve nuclear explosives.

On this ground, they tended to discount the 100-megaton bomb, which is hardly new in Khrushchev's terminology.

The neutron bomb, it was noted, likely would have a relatively short killing range, and thus would not seem to fit

Khrushchev's description of the new weapon as capable of annihilating life on earth.

As for the cobalt bomb, scientists said such a "dirty" weapon is considered dangerous to the user country because the heavy radioactivity it would emit likely would be carried around the world on air currents and deposited on the soil of that country.

Senator Richard B. Russell Dem. Ga. of the Senate armed services committee, said early this year that both the United States and Russia are trying to develop a death ray.

He did not go into detail, but the House of Representatives appropriations committee reported in April that "a death ray type of weapon might evolve from Laser research."

Laser derives from "light amplification by stimulated emission of radiation," an intense light beam.

The committee voted funds to push work on such weapons of the future as death ray and chemical agents that could "render persons helpless for short periods of time without causing large numbers of fatalities."

It is no secret that the United States has been experimenting with and manufacturing various kinds of "nerve gases," some of which incapacitate and others that kill.

Pentagon specialists said they always are hearing rumors of Russian experiments in chemical-biological warfare.

If, as some experts think, Khrushchev was talking about a new weapon of this kind, it would appear he was referring to something lethal and not a paralyzing or incapacitating nerve gas.

But the experts pointed out that the use of such gases or chemical agents carries a danger to the user country, as in the case of the cobalt bomb.

They said the user country would be in danger of the chemical or germ agents wafting back on its people.

"The remarkable and enduring relationship between two nations which this peace celebrates is by now so familiar to the people of our two countries that it may be taken for granted."

"But perhaps it would be well for us to proclaim more often to all the world the trust, the understanding and the affection which Canadians and Americans have shared as a matter of course for over 150 years."

"Because if good example is the spark of imitation, then we may light the way, by our example, to a new frontier of co-operation among the nations of a troubled world."

The Columbia Treaty was "another demonstration of our mutual confidence."

The only political note in the speech was a brief reference to the prepayment formula in the treaty under which B.C. today received $273,000,000 from the U.S. for power benefits to be derived from the treaty.

The premier said "we would perhaps be less than human if we did not take real satisfaction in the knowledge that the financing formula put forward by the British Columbia government was accepted by both national governments as a means of implementing the treaty's terms."

"It is rewarding to see these benefits enjoyed by a single province or state; it is infinitely more rewarding to see them extended to millions of people in both our countries."

"We are already developing the mighty resource of the Peace River and I can assure you, Mr. President and Mr. Prime Minister, that we will proceed just as swiftly and diligently to develop the Columbia River in keeping with the terms of the international treaty."

B.C. AND ALASKA

'Go-it-alone'
Power Project?

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP)—British Columbia and Alaska may move alone toward a joint industrial and power scheme to avoid delays usual to international agreements, top officials said here Tuesday.

In a report to the Alaska-British Columbia-Yukon conference, Lands and Forest Minister Ray Williston of B.C. said forest and water reserves have been established on the remote Iskut Valley of the Alaska Panhandle. A private company has proposed a dam that could supply power for two major mineral developments. Both would involve international agreements.

However, state and provincial officials proposed that responsibility for the international aspects of the scheme be taken out of the hands of the U.S. and Canadian Federal governments.

Mr. Williston and Governor William Egan of Alaska said development could be tied up for 10 years if referred to the International Joint Commission.

They agreed that in regional matters, the province and state should settle their own problems and not follow the formula set out by the international boundary waters treaty of 1909.

STUDY PLANS

Mr. Williston said plans are being studied for the first of four potential dams on the Iskut River, part of the Stikine River system near the Alaska-B.C. border.

He said the four dams could produce 579,000 kilowatts of power at a cost of between two and three mills per kilowatt hour at site.

The power could supply the needs of the Alaskan communities of Wrangell and Petersburg, the Granduc Copper Mine near Stewart, B.C. — scheduled for production in 1966—and the Kenecott copper find on the Stikine which has tens of millions of tons of ore.

The minister suggested an 80-mile railroad linking Wrangell pulp and lumber operation proposed for the Stikine and Iskut valleys.

'It's Up to Them'
Says Secessionist

If the View Royal fire protection district has a loan to pay off, that's View Royal's problem, according to a secessionist leader.

Mrs. W. P. Rankin, 1440 Craigflower, says she is still determined the View Royal panhandle should join Esquimalt.

Her proposal is being fought by D. R. Preece, chairman of the fire protection district, who has written to Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell to hold up action.

He asked the minister to assure fire trustees the withdrawal of the 140 residents of the panhandle won't leave the rest of View Royal stuck with paying of a half-paid $30,000 fire protection loan from the provincial government.

LIFTING AN OCTOPUS is easy—the trick is to put it down, as a member of the Bohemian Skindivers Club of Victoria demonstrates. Big 'pod' is being lifted back into salt water tank after weighing, and as expressions on bystanders' faces indicate, it's a sticky business. Same scene will be re-enacted Sunday when Canadian Open octopus grapple gets under way at Saxe Point, with skindivers from most of Pacific Northwest participating. Three-man teams win prizes for aggregate weight of the eight-armed 'they wrestle to surface.

RIGHTS DENIED SAYS REALTOR

NANAIMO (CP)—A Nanaimo real estate agent said Monday night city council should set up a five-man board to judge appeals from city decisions.

Dr. Mladen Zorkin, Canadian president of the International Real Estate Federation, told a stormy council session recent city decisions have denied his "basic right of appeal."

At issue is his application to stucco all four sides of his building on Fitzwilliam Street. He has been told a 1957 building code permits use of stucco on only two of the sides.

'NONSENSE'

Dr. Zorkin said he applied first to be heard by an appeal board but was told to go before council in a closed meeting. He was heard March 10 and Council later decided against him.

He told council Monday night: "You bring the law, you make the law, then you listen to the appeal. This is nonsense."

Council decided to consider the matter further at another closed meeting.

3-Mile Students Get Bus Rides
Trustee Insists

Students outside the three-mile walking area around Royal Oak High School are still getting school bus service, says board chairman Reg Sinkinson, despite complaints by parents their children are walking more than three miles from Cordova Bay.

The Times had received complaints that some students were told Friday they would no longer be able to ride the school bus from Cordova Bay. Mr. Sinkinson said the school district is required to supply school bus service beyond the three-mile walking area, and in-bound buses without a full-load would stop and pick up students not legally entitled to ride.

But this has had to be stopped where students outside the walking area fill up the buses.

"We're not required to give rides to students in the three-mile walking area," said Mr. Sinkinson.

"Getting to school is their problem."

The three-mile walking area is decided on the basis of closest routes on public roads.

One Bid
For Old Hospital

NANAIMO — Only one bid to buy the old hospital was received by the Nanaimo Regional Hospital Board by the Tuesday deadline.

The $30,000 bid was submitted by Nanaimo Realty Limited, acting as agent for K. A. Rayand Limited of Vancouver.

The firm indicated if the bid was accepted they would convert the building into an apartment house or a senior citizens home.

The board will decide Sept. 24 whether to recommend or reject the bid to the hospital society.

The old hospital has been vacant since the new one opened nearly two years ago.

Pigeon Results

Birds winged back to Victoria from Kamloops and Lytton during the weekend to conclude the two final races in the young bird series of the Capital City Racing Pigeon Club.

Winner in the 210-mile Kamloops race was bird owned by John Arnaud. It was clocked in at five hours, 14 minutes and 51 seconds. The next four birds to clock in were owned by J. and D. Blackstock, Dick Roe, Barney Wooley and Bob Packford.

In the 160-mile race from Lytton, Dick Roe's loft won with a time of four hours, 20 minutes and 14 seconds. Second place went to George Thomas and third to J. and D. Blackstock.

Jaycees Doubled
Their Pleasure

It takes a double celebration to celebrate a double celebration.

At least that's how it turned out Saturday when Victoria Jaycees celebrated the last week of their Tourist of the Week program by selecting two couples.

After both choices had been made, one on the B.C. Ferry Queen of Esquimalt, the other on the Mr. Coho from Port Angeles, it was discovered both couples were having their own celebrations.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nordon, Boston, Mass., had chosen Victoria as the ideal setting for their second honeymoon.

And Capt. and Mrs. Brent Seager from the Fairchild Air Force base near Spokane, were here to celebrate their fifth wedding anniversary.

Anti-Birth Control
Law Protests Urged

Housewives across the country were urged today to write their members of parliament to protest an anti-birth control section of the Criminal Code.

Mrs. Sheila Barone, 197 Egerton, said if enough women wrote their MPs the law would have to be changed.

Section 150 of the Criminal Code makes it illegal to sell, give or advertise any instruction, medicine, drug or article intended for use in birth control.

"I don't want the law wide open," she said. "But all those babies up for adoption—maybe a change would prevent this."

WRITES MP

Mrs. Barone, a mother of three, said she is writing George Chatterton, Progressive Conservative MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, asking if a trip to Ottawa "is worth it or in vain."

She is also asking him "Do you think the law is made by the people, for the people" and

Draws Fire
From Alderman

DUNCAN — A cutback in the number of beds for the proposed $3,500,000 Cowichan Hospital here was criticized Monday night by Ald. Hamish Mutter.

The aldermen told city council he's been informed the hospital will have 145 beds, not 165 as planned originally.

OVERCROWDING

He said this could lead to a similar situation as Nanaimo where the new hospital is already overcrowded.

Suggesting the old hospital be kept open after the new building is completed, he said:

"This area experiences an annual population increase of two per cent and we must have more beds."

GOVT REQUEST

Ald. James Saunders said the original hospital plans had to be cut down because of government requests and rising costs.

A shell on the top floor would provide for later extension.

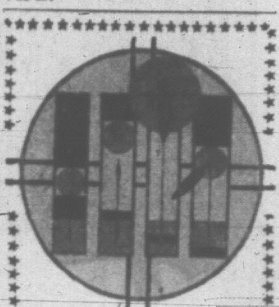

Ald. Mutter demanded a full report from council's representative on the hospital board—Ald. Saunders—at the next meeting. Council agreed to this request.

Alberni Passes
On $450 Grant

ALBERNI—City Council will not support the Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau which has asked for $450 for tourist promotion in the Alberni Valley.

But $250 has been approved to the publicity bureau in Victoria.

Council decided that since the defunct Alberni Board of Trade joined the Port Alberni Chamber of Commerce, any donations would be duplicated by Port Alberni. Port has given $650 for tourist promotion to VIPIB.
